Judging by their outstanding first half form against Merton-East last week-end, last year's premiers are going to be the side to beat again this season.

After the first two rounds, Azzurri head the table with traditional rivals Hellenic. A slightly superior goal average favours Azzurri at the moment.

On our cover this week are three key men from the powerful Azzurri machine - From the left, Willie Connors, Gary Clifford and Peter Nielsen.

To indicate how the times have changed, we point out that of the 14 players, only eight are still engaged in Brisbane First Division activities.

They are Tucker (Polonia coach), Haigh (Azzurri), Davis (Coalstars), Mackie (Hellenic), Johnston (Coalstars), Steen (Hollandia), Wilkins (Hollandia) and Jackson (Hellenic).

Not one of the 14 is a member of the current State training squad.

Of the others, Kelly and Richards are playing First Division football in Sydney, McMillan and Van Klaveren have retired and Ross has returned to Scotland. Barry Burren is still on the Coalstars books but has not played this season.

★ MERTON'S TALENTED YOUNGSTERS ★

ROD STEIN

STEVE DOLAN

Merton-East coach Matt Carson got a real bargain when he signed on forward Steve Dolan and fullback Rodney Stein, members of the Queensland under-16 side, for the 1972 season.

Young Dolan, judging by his opening First Division matches looks to have a big future in the game.

A feature of his football is his tremendous speed, powerful shot and stylish, accurate passing.

Stein, a solid well built defender, came on as a replacement for Eric Pattison against Azzurri last Sunday, but obviously was out of his depth in the Merton forward line.

As a defender though, he has the earmarks of a possible candidate for State selection sometime in the future.

These two players represent only a small fraction of the number of extremely talented youngsters currently making the grade in First Division.

Others to watch are Azzurri winger Ross Denny and St. Helens forwards Trevor Broadbent and Rick Kitching.

COACHING WITH CRAMER

By F.I.F.A. coach Dettmar Cramer.

The football world has many great goalkeepers. I have met many, both as player and coach. For me, Yashin of Russia was the best that I have ever seen and with whom I have had to occupy myself as a coach.

I use Yashin as an example, remembering the many brilliant saves he has made in his long career as an international goalkeeper.

Let us deal with the method employed by a goalkeeper as a forward in the clear bears down on the goal-mouth.

Yashin always left the goal line in good time, thus shortening the shooting angle.

All the ensuing movements take place in a fraction of a second. Yashin's technique was impeccable.

Just before the forward shoots, he would prepare to dive against the shot. His body would fly sideways with his head between his arms and the hands and body covering the goal.

He did not fall on his stomach but would safely catch or smother the ball and draw it towards his body.

Goalkeeping training is an important matter. The standard of a team's defence goes up and down according to the quality of the goalkeeper, and for that reason, the goalkeeper must be as well trained as the other members of a team.

My suggestion is that every goalkeeper be trained with the team as well as receiving a specialised supplementary training.

He must, like all the other players, play with the team, anticipate play, react in good time and more be sure of himself as a good goalkeeper.

The best goalkeepers in the world are not bad field players, but they are great specialists as goalkeepers.

JUNIOR JOTTINGS

By Stan Dye

REFEREES WILL BE ON THE JOB

As a follow on from instructions issued to all national referees' associations by F.I.F.A., the Queensland branch of the Australian Referees' Association (Junior Division) has advised that there will be a concerted move towards stricter interpretation of the rules of the game this season.

Team managers and coaches should ensure that all players in the junior section of the code are made aware of this advice and be urged to conduct themselves and play the game in such a way that there will be no danger of their names appearing in the little black book.

Referees will clamp down firmly on all players who commit offences, particularly blatant time wasting.

Dissenting by word or action, persistent foul play, or use of foul or abusive language also will bring swift action from the referees.

The B.J.S.A. Disputes Committee will without doubt fully support the referees in their campaign for better presentation of our code, and players who appear before the committee can expect severe action if the referee's charge against them is sustained.

Managers and coaches should realise that they are all in the best position for influencing junior players as far as behaviour is concerned.

Perhaps a few words of advice will not go amiss and will contribute to the enjoyment of the game by the boys, their parents, other spectators and in fact the referees.

AZZURRI HOST TO EAST BANKSTOWN

Azzurri juniors will be hosts to an under-14 team from East Bankstown over the Easter week-end.

East Bankstown is a member club of the Bankstown Association of Soccer clubs.

They will play a series of three games. On Saturday, they will meet an Azzurri under-14 side at Spencer Park at 11.30 a.m.).

On Sunday the visitors will play against a 1971 Brisbane under-13 representative team at a venue to be decided.

The third match will be against a Bardon-Latrobe under-14 team at Spencer Park on Monday at 10.30 a.m.

The B.J.S.A. and its member clubs is striking a happy note in our association with the Bankstown Association on both a club and association level, and is pleased to welcome the visitors here.

They are no strangers to the Brisbane scene as they have had reciprocal visits for some years with St. Helens and it was in fact a meeting with the Azzurri club when East Bankstown visited Saints last year that led up to this tour.

THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY

If the referee performs his duties on the field with firm decision, courage and confidence, and applies and interprets the Laws of the Game so as to be fair but firm with both teams, then such unconditional acceptance of his authority is undoubtedly due to him. He thus earns the respect of all concerned for his position as the sole arbiter on the field, — that of players, manager, club officials and the authorities. In this way, the spectators too may fully enjoy the performance of their favourite team, of the opposing team and of the referee.

REFEREE DECISIONS

(Compiled by J. Carlin, Publicity Officer, Australian Soccer Referees Queensland)

Many times we hear a football supporter say that his team lost because of a wrong decision by the referee. Has the average supporter ever seriously thought of the number of decisions made by a referee in the course of every game?

In an average league game there will probably be more than 40 throw-ins. There could be as many as 20 Corner kicks. Goalkicks will vary from 15 in number to about 30. Free kicks for fouls, direct and indirect, are liable to range between 20 and 35. There are three or four hand ball incidents. Off-sides are indicated an average of 10 times during a game (one well known centre-forward was pulled up no fewer than 17 times during one game!)

Taking into account "advantage" decisions and "play-on" when a supposed infringement may thought to have occurred, cautions issued, goals allowed or disallowed, it is fair to suggest that a referee, assisted by his linesmen, will make at the very least 120 decisions during each 90 minutes of football.

If in watching to-day's game the spectator considers that an error has been made by the officials he might spare a thought for the number of occasions on which the referee has been correct!

- "I'd play for the State side at any time." — Eddie Carrigan.
- "We had to field a badly patched up side last week. It will be different this week-end." — Thistle coach Barry Dann.
- "The boys are starting to move well although we only had to play at half pace against Oxley." — Eddie Carrigan.
- "When we get a better standard of football here, we will have a better standard of refereeing." — Des Miles.
- "Hollandia should have played much better with the side they've got this year." — Bob Buchanan.

FIRST DIVISION PAGES

HELLENIC v. OXLEY
(Sunday, Perry Park, 3.00).

By Bob Buchanan

With Hellenic playing well within themselves even at this early stage of the season Oxley look as though they are in for another hard game.

It is unfortunate that the red and whites have had to play three tough ones right at the beginning of the season but at least they know the standard that is required to make their presence felt.

Most spectators said last week that they were unlucky not to beat Bardon, but they allowed the opposition to dictate the terms.

However had Jim Kirks shot gone into the net instead of hitting the bar I think it would have made a big difference to the game.

In fact Oxley should have had at least 3 goals during the match, so in some respect they had only themselves to blame.

Brian Barnes is playing quiet well just now as is Roy Lothian though I didn't think he was 100% fit last week. Pete Bailey is a constant custodian and can hardly be blamed for the seven goals that have passed him so far this season.

Jim Kirk is the boy to watch he is really playing his best football since coming to Q.L.D. Paul Yeuell and Bob Dobinson should make most defences uncomfortable this year when they find their shooting boots.

With the above mentioned forming the nucleus of the side coach Tony Lowndes shouldn't have much trouble blending the rest, but Tony "it will have to be soon as you can't afford too many losses from now".

Their opponents for Sunday match will be very hard to beat, as they are playing real steady man to man stuff.

With the inclusion of Neil Catchpole on loan from Merton-East, they now have the strength that Tom Devine wanted although mind you, young Nigel Rehbock impressed and with a bit more experience will be a good man to have around.

Whether Devine plays Cyril Barlow or Stan Sander this week remains to be seen, neither will let him down young Barlow didn't have much to do last week but he dealt confidently with anything that came his way.

Bill Fagan will want to forget the first 15 minutes against Grange when he managed 11 offside decisions but mind you I never heard a Hellenic player telling him he was "off".

Brother Ian worked hard and is forming a good understanding with Tony Murtagh and Matt Jackson.

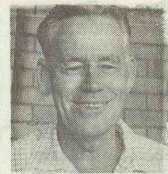

I think the Hellenic defence may be too strong for Oxley with Bill Maxton maybe even having time for a run up the wing trying to emulate Chas Matters.

Oxley have the job ahead but should they click early they will give Hellenic a fright but I think the boys in blue will notch up another 2 points.

THISTLE v. POLONIA
(Sunday, Lanham Park, 7.45).

By Ron Mitchell

Midway through the second-half of the Polonia v. Hollandia Inala match at Perry Park last Sunday, I felt that Polonia would be too enterprising for Grange Thistle in next Sunday night's clash at Lanham Park.

This thought was prompted by Polonia's seeming control of the match with a 2-0 lead and by Grange Thistle's disappointing display against Hellenic in the earlier Perry Park match.

But Polonia wilted suddenly and the determined Hollandia were back in the game with two quick goals and on the run of play in the closing stages. Polonia probably were quite content to settled for a draw and the one point.

Too much could not be expected too soon from Polonia's three newcomers from England who had arrived only a few days before. Ron Piper who had been with Polonia a few years ago, and Keith Hymas naturally will take time to settle in. Goalkeeper Robert Barlow, the third of the English trio, gave a confident display.

Polonia are likely to make use of their wingers, particularly Wayne Walker, at every opportunity.

Walker still has not fully realised his potential. Too foten, he squanders his undoubted talent, after speedy and intelligent lead-up work by losing control, crossing the ball erratically, or shooting for goal without power and/or direction.

Yet, he can score opportunist goals. Remember that gem of a header for Polonia's first goal last Sunday.

Polonia's style usually is entertaining and attractive, but their attack rarely has been as effective as their defence, chiefly, I think, through the strikers' lack of steadiness even when not under pressure and not through lack of scoring chances.

Grange Thistle are like the little girl in the nursery rhyme who when she was good was very, very good and when she was bad she was horrid.

Thistle, a progressive club, whose First Division team has had a 30 year run in the company, won last year's President's Cup and were just nudged out of the semi-finals by Hellenic.

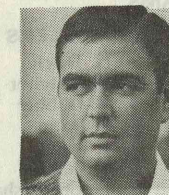

The acquisition of David Jones from Wynnun and return of Owen Monaghan from Polonia plus Alex Anderson's return to fitness after a long spell last season were expected to result in a better balanced team this year.

Against Hellenic last Sunday, goalkeeper Russell Hicks, who has deposed Peter Roberts, showed fast reflexes and good handling, but the field defence lacked stability. In attack Thistle had few scoring chances with Ritchie Smith looking dangerous at times. Alan Bain crashed a 40-yarder against the bar but there was a bad miss in the second-half when a perfect cross from Jim Ancliffe from the right flank was not rammed home by either of the two perfectly positioned strikers.

The match should be a close one. I think Thistle's home ground advantage may tip the scales their way.

MERTON v. BARDON
(Monday, Perry Park, 3.00).

By Bruce Waddell.

Monday's Easter clash at Perry Park between Merton-East and Bardon-Latrobe undoubtedly will be the clash of the week-end.

What an amazing situation to find last year's premiership runners-up and grand finalists down at the bottom of the table with Oxley as a result of losses in the first two rounds.

But that position fails to indicate the tremendous fighting spirit and ability produced by Merton in the second half of their match against Azzurri last Sunday.

Down 0-2 at haltime they almost pulled off an unbelievable comeback, even with star striker in the dressing shed with an injured ankle.

Only extremely bad luck prevented Merton from gaining at least a point in that match, and if Pattison is back on deck again this week, those opening points could well come Merton's way this week.

Young Steve Dolan was promising in a sometimes brilliant, sometimes ineffective Merton attack and with support akin to what he received in the second half against Azzurri from Des Heath, Bevan Bohan and Ron Millman, should continue to improve.

Matt Carson surely must consider playing Millman from the start this week in view of his two performances after being brought on from the reserves in the last two weeks.

Midfield is a problem for Merton at the moment and Alex Senjuschenko must return to his best form to lend support, to the solidity of big Gary Catchpole.

Bardon must approach this match with extreme optimism, after their cracking return to form against Oxley last Saturday, when Eddie Carrigan, John Hudson and John McGinley reigned supreme in the middle.

The obvious goal-grabbing potential of stocky Neil Docherty and the added thrust of Alan Morris should enable Bardon to remain as one of the teams to beat this year.

Jim Binnie is embarrassed a little by riches in defence where last week he could afford to swing Alan Sinclair back to left back, replacing him with Geoff Gault in the second half.

This match not only should produce the best football of the week-end but probably also the most fireworks, with Bardon getting my nod to continue narrowly on their winning way.

HOLLANDIA v. ST. HELENS
(Monday, Richlands, 2.45)

By Bob Buchanan

With both clubs still striving to get better combination between players this maybe the match of the week-end.

Hollandia must be a little worried as they have only managed one point up to now when they could have quite easily had three.

They are taking too long to settle into rythmn and this will have to be remedied quickly as stronger teams will exploit it to the fullest.

Gary Wilkins is a must for midfield, where his drive will help Dave Sargent and Jim McCabe, the only problem is who to drop.

Their defence is quite solid with Sven Andersen, a capable stopper, and Mark Walker looks like he has played with Hollandia for years. He settled very quickly.

I liked young Koraknai on the right wing. He must be the fastest in the division and when he learns to cut the ball back a bit further than last week he may be the most dangerous.

Ben Mollee was a bit shaky early on but settled down and came out on top. Daryl Wilkins is a very effective player in midfield with not a bad shot which he doesn't use.

Saint Helens have started the season quite well with 3 points out of 4 but coach Fred Robins can't be too happy as he has had changes already, admittedly, some were forced.

One advantage he does have is the fact that he has plenty of youth blending with experience and when his formation clicks many teams will fall.

Noel Doyle filled Mark Walkers position last week and did an admirable job. His confidence will grow with each game.

John Verrall has become a steadying influence in this side and I think this has allowed Lex Gibb to show us what he can do.

Another, Kitching has appeared on the scene and that means trouble to opposing defences. Young Rick will do very well, that is if he is allowed a bit of space.

I think Fred's job is trying to get a settled defence built around Peter Gemmell once this is done they will be worth watching.

He has plenty of talent with Bruce Dobbie, Tony Butcher and the Dann brothers John and Steve and Doug to name a few.

I am going for Hollandia only because I think they are due to click and Saints might still be in the experimental stage.

COALSTARS v. AZZURRI
(Monday, Bundamba, 2.45).

By Bruce Waddell.

Only the seemingly foolhardy would attempt to predict anything but an Azzurri win in this encounter at Bundamba.

With Billy Haigh and Peter Nielsen in full stride in the middle against Merton in the first half last week, the premiers looked capable of beating any side in the competition.

But coach Nereo Saftich must be a little worried at the way Merton got back into the match in the second half, even being without the services of Eric Pattison for a lengthy period.

A slip like that against the energetic Coalstars could prove fatal.

Highlights should be Ian Johnston's appearance against his team of last year and the excellent football produced on the wings for Azzurri by their "twins", Willie Connors and young Ross Denny.

With a feast of the ball from Haigh, Nielsen and to a lesser extent, Peter Strawson, they looked like world beaters in the first half against Merton last week.

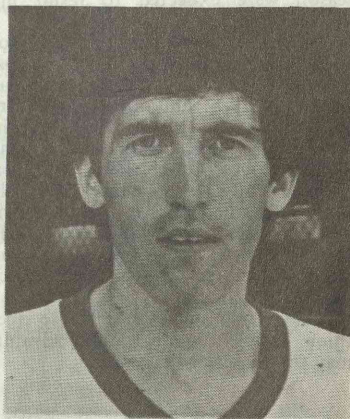

If Coalstars can come up with an effective answer midfield their attacking power naturally will be nullified.

With big Dave Neal, Matt Hosie, Bruno Pinti and Gary Clifford at the helm, Azzurri can still boast of one of the most compact defences in the business, although Ian Perry and his mates proved that they were not infallible under the Merton onslaught at Spencer Park.

Some continued constructive work by Ian Johnston, Kevin Caldwell and Alex Cumming could enable Coalstars to test that backline to the hilt again on Monday.

The Coalstars defence always appears a little suspect and the advances of Connors, Denny and the ever-present Charlie Dench will have to be kept closely in check by Barry Payne, Trevor Davis and Frank Johnston.

This match again could prove a headache for the tipsters, but most will be plumping for Azzurri, and on form they should be pretty near the mark.
