GO SOCCER EDITORIAL

By Go Soccer Editor

GEOFF STEAD

Soccer was the unlucky victim of last week's attempted international series boycott by the National League.

The move was irresponsible, ill-timed and totally unnecessary. The National League attempted to hold Australian soccer to ransom.

The headlines the NSL managed to grab did little more than further tarnish soccer's already shaky credibility.

Thankfully, the boycott fell flat on its face, and the players who were made to be the meat in the sandwich carried on refusing to become entangled in the game's politics.

But the fact that the NSL clubs should be moved to take such drastic action highlights that there are problems of serious proportions behind the scenes.

It is extremely difficult to editorialise on those problems when the full facts are not known. And these days in Australian soccer everything seems to be done behind a veil of secrecy.

It is doubtful if many of the facts will ever surface. But one group should not attempt to gain an advantage by embarrassing Australia in the eyes of the soccer world.

It is not surprising FIFA refuses to give Oceania full voting rights when stories of in-fighting, upheavals and discontent continually filter out of Australia.

Points to ponder

Bill Bryant's Redlands Intermediate League team have been winning praise almost everywhere they play of late. But one particularly high accolade came last week from Ipswich United coach Matt Carson, whose side had to pull out all stops to come from a goal behind to win their Ampol Cup match 3-1. "They are the best side I have seen so far this season," Carson said.

Surely the quote of the week came from a daily newspaper editor on seeing the banner headlines on a story about the threatened NSL player boycott. "When soccer declares peace, then we will have a big story," he said.

Running Queensland soccer is an unenviable job, but one recent Thursday afternoon must have been particularly hectic for the Perry Park staff. The team was caught taking an "energy food" break. Anyone who gets an ice cream stick in their minutes this week will now know why.

Brisbane Lions youngster Steve Fulton, who has turned in some promising performances at NSL level over the past few weeks, must be one of the unluckiest players around at the moment. Steve was just three days too old to be considered for the present crop of youth players being groomed for the world championships in Chile next year.

The re-arrangement of Australia's qualifying path for the Mexico World Cup finals has ended any chance of what could have been a promoter's dream. Under the old system there was a real likelihood Australia could have been pitted against Greece for a place in the final 24. Imagine staging Australia versus Greece, the winner to go to Mexico, in Melbourne. Tickets would be as sought after as those for a VFL final. Barring an upset Australia will now probably meet Scotland or Spain.

But the NSL cannot be held totally to blame. The Australian Soccer Federation and its marketing company seemingly have no regard for the financial difficulties in which some clubs presently find themselves.

In most cases, the clubs have themselves to blame — mainly through paying inflated transfer fees and huge wages. But if just one NSL club goes to the wall this season, it will reflect on the whole of Australian soccer, not just the National League.

It is high time, and it has been said many times before, that officials at all levels began working for the code and not for themselves or their own little part of the game.

Officials on both sides of the present argument should be tolerant and understanding of each other's problems and complaints. Drastic action such as that taken last week should never be necessary. Such folly threats should be made only behind closed doors, if at all.

If the present crop of ASF and NSL officials cannot work together for the advancement of soccer in Australia, then they should get out, and let people who can take over.

THE PAIN OF MISSING SELECTION

By GREG RUSSELL

Brisbane Lions striker Danny Wright has revealed he played in pain in attempt to hold his place in the Australian A squad which this week is taking on some of the best club sides in the world.

Wright played two games for Lions, despite knowing his ankle injury was not healed, before conceding the injury had beaten him.

"I didn't want injections, but I took painkillers," Wright said.

"I knew I had to play because all the other strikers in the squad were playing well and scoring goals. I know that if I had taken a complete rest I would have been overlooked anyway. I had to give it a go"

Wright, who was Queensland's only selection in the Australian A and B squads which are now taking on Manchester United, Glasgow Rangers, Juventus, Nottingham Forest and Iraklis, injured his ankle in the replayed derby with Brisbane City.

And he blames long studs for the injury.

"I had put the longer studs in the previous Sunday because of the wet weather. I left them in for Perry Park, but the ground was much harder than I expected.

"I can remember getting my legs tangled with Steve Perry, but my tags gripped and my ankle dug in as my leg went over," he said.

Wright severely tore tendons on both sides of his ankle in the fall.

"I knew straight away it was serious, it is the worst injury I have ever had," Wright said.

But it took several weeks for the former Young Soccerroo to believe that himself.

"Looking back I now wish someone would have just told me to forget about playing and rest the injury. But everyone left it up to me to decide if I could play, and of course I kept thinking I could play through the pain," Wright said.

Danny Wright at his best . . . Scoring for Queensland against New South Wales.

A fit Danny Wright earlier this season, helping to stop Brisbane City's Ken Swan with help from Steve Jackson.

Although Wright will be the most disappointed player in Australia when the Soccerroos take on Rangers at Lang Park this week and Nottingham Forest on June 7, the youngster has not given up hope of wearing the green and gold again.

"I though if I made the Australian squad I wouldn't have played in the starting line-up anyway. But I fancied my chances as coming on as a reserve.

"I just hope Frank Arok hasn't forgotten about me and I am still part of his world Cup plans," Wright said.

After specialist treatment, Wright hopes to resume light running this week. And although he scoffs at suggestions he could be sidelined for up to six weeks, he admits the injury is a week by week proposition.

"This time I won't play until it is completely right. Then I hope to get back in the Lions team and start scoring goals. This has been my biggest set-back ever but I am determined to bounce back.

"I have learned my lesson with injuries and at 20 I've got time on my side. I want to play for Australia and I hope this is the last of my bad luck," Wright said.

With both National League Clubs recently re-assessing their striking power, Go Soccer's MARK BRIGDEN put the Formscope on two possible NSL candidates from the Premier League.

OUR BACKYARD IS FULL OF IN-FORM STRIKERS!

The answer to Brisbane City and Lions' present goalscoring problems is in the Premier League.

The League is abound with strikers, who with the right coaching and given the right opportunities, could make a go of NSL.

While neither club could afford to buy every striker who shows potential in the lower league, nor would it be practical, perhaps certain players' ability to make the transition could be assessed by them training with the National League clubs one night a week.

In the main, the striking forces of both NSL clubs are local players who were given the opportunity they deserved.

To bring in new players is not to question the ability of Calvin Daunt or Danny Wright at Lions or Stephen Glockner and Lee Scriggins at City.

But these players need to play off a more aggressive hard-working striker to be more effective.

A Barry Kelso-type player is needed to harass opposition defences enough to create the opportunities for others.

The two most aggressive strikers in the Premier League at the moment are Gary Bohan, of Mount Gravatt and Steve Gallagher of Acacia Ridge. The opportunity was taken for a direct comparison under the Formscope, when their respective clubs met recently.

The statistics show both strikers had similar games, with Bohan faring marginally better (although his team was on top territorially).

There is no doubt though that Steve Gallagher has the ability to make a success of the target man position at either of the NSL clubs. He is good in the air, holds the ball well, tackles tenaciously and has a hard shot. However an adjustment period could be needed.

But Gary Bohan could walk into the National League tomorrow. He has years of experience playing in one of Brisbane's most successful teams and he has the ability to worry the top defenders.

His goal in the Formscope match showed great skill. He controlled a long ball with his chest, swivelled and volleyed in one movement. His shot gave the in-form Brett Beves no chance despite being hit from the edge of the penalty area.

Bohan has one other attribute that is a pre-requisite for a targetman in the National League — toughness.

In the past there has always been a question mark over Bohan's attitude to play NSL. But he is a much more mature and responsible player this season. His sheer commitment alone would be an asset to either of the NSL clubs.

Obviously the movement of any player between the Premier League and NSL can only work if the clubs involved are responsible to the players and to each other.

But acceptable deals can be found in loan arrangements with player swaps and contracts with clauses for further future payment.

Clubs like Mount Gravatt, Ipswich United and perhaps a few others are comparable to any NSW or Victorian State League sides, yet any player plucked from teams in those competitions are considered stars.

Let's start looking in our own backyard first.

TED JEFFERIES

TALKING TOUGH SOCCER

For my money, Brisbane City youngster Frank Mengotti is fast becoming the buy of the season. His potential is becoming more evident with each game.

When the NSL clubs finally wipe the egg off their faces after last week's boycott debacle, they might get on with the job of trying to promote soccer in Australia rather than destroy it.

Many club officials have been critical of Gordon Nicholson and his zest in handing out yellow cards of late. But their criticism was way off the mark in the NSL Cup derby last week. Nicholson went to great lengths to warn several players, mainly about foul language. And when he did pull the card it was for two wild tackles, one blatantly from behind and after the ball had been played. The match was an aggressive one and Nicholson should be commended for maintaining a firm grip. In fact, he probably lost marks from any inspector for not sending a very prominent player off for what amounted to an open-fisted punch behind play.

TED JEFFERIES is an independent contributor. His views are not necessarily those of Go Soccer nor of the Queensland Soccer Federation and its officials.

GO SOCCER

FOR THE JUNIORS

Brisbane's first full-time junior representative team is enjoying success, not only in their matches to date, but in attracting a lot of favourable comments from those who have seen them train and play.

"At training, this team would have to be one of the hardest working and keenest in Brisbane, and this includes seniors," Brisbane Southern Districts Junior Soccer Association President Don Look told Go Soccer.

"Bruce Stowell, the State Director of Coaching, has expressed great interest in what we are doing, whereby the boys train and play in the rep. team only, and has promised me he will now be coming along to training sessions," Don added.

Under the guidance of team Coach Brian MacNicol and Brisbane South's D.O.C. Fred Kingshott, the players are following a program which will lead them to Cairns for this year's under-15 state championships.

Bruce Stowell will no doubt be looking at the players in this team with an eye to his 1985 under-16 Queensland team.

NEWMARKET NEWS

The weekend of May 19 and 20 proved to be most successful for the club.

All four senior teams emerged undefeated. The top side — Intermediate League — had their first victory of the '84 season with a hard fought and gutsy 1-0 win over the previously undefeated Redlands.

The Reserve side, made up mainly from our promising Senior Colts of the past two years, achieved a nill-all result against Redlands.

Our Fourth Division continued their climb up the ladder with an easy 6-1 win, while the Sixth Division team also moved up the points table with a 4-1 victory.

All four teams have now proved they are capable of making at least the finals play-offs in three months.

Our juniors also are achieving some excellent results.

The following teams were undefeated in their respective divisions, prior to last weekend's fixtures: Junior Colts 2, under 11 Div. 1 (undefeated Premier 1983 under 10 Div. 2), Under 9 Div. 1 and Under 9 Div. 4.

Other teams performing well include the Under 13 Div. 1 side which before last weekend had lost only one match, the under 12 Div. 2 which had done the same, and the Under 12 Div. 3 and Under 9 Div. 3 teams which has lost only two games each.

It appears that of the club's 16 junior teams that play for points, as many as 10 will be in the top four at the conclusion of the first round of fixtures — a truly remarkable result if it turns out that way.

Don't forget that the sponsors on this page are the ones that support our club, so whenever possible support them.

Ipswich Comments By Terry Brown

F. A. S. T. — Ipswich clubs are rarely mentioned when contemporary, capable and powerful clubs are discussed. Why? It could be that they do not rate comment.

Brisbane parochialism condemns any club outside of a 10 mile radius of Perry Park as "Boys from the Bush".

This article is written in defence of all IPSWICH clubs, but in particular in defence of Ipswich United (St. Helens) and Coalstars. It highlights the performance of those clubs in four vital areas. They are: Facilities; Administration; Supporters; Team strength.

Comparisons can easily be drawn between clubs using F.A.S.T.

Facilities: Excluding the NSL clubs, only Taringa matches the development at Ebbw Vale and Bundamba. For overall facilities only Grange Thistle is superior to both.

Administration: Ipswich administrations are a much maligned group. They have performed more than creditably in the past five years. For instance, Ipswich United have held the code's best sponsor, Jacaranda, for that period. Coalstars have also held a very good sponsor First Provincial for almost as long. Can any Brisbane club equal them?

Supporters: Unquestionably the most fiercely loyal in Queensland.

Teams: Ipswich United has for seven years been a regular top four or Ampol Cup finalist. Coalstars have returned to top grade and have completely rebuilt their side.

Who could ask for more?

Apply the F.A.S.T. criterion to other clubs. Facilities — Grange are better; Administration — Perhaps Olympic for the speed of development; Supporters — Ipswich clubs by a mile; Teams — Clearly Mt. Gravatt has a better track record.

F.A.S.T. says that by today's standards Ipswich clubs are in better shape than most of their Brisbane counterparts. Win, lose or draw this season, everyone knows that Ipswich Utd. and Coalstars are here to stay. Are all other clubs so certain?

WORLD SOCCER SERIES SNIPPETS

Although Frank Worthington is touring with Manchester United, he will not sign for the club.

The 35-year-old former England striker, has gone on a free transfer from Southampton to Brighton.

Worthington, who has made a total of 692 league appearances, scoring 220 goals, is on a year's contract and Brighton becomes his eighth league club.

Worthington said: "I left Southampton because of a personal disagreement with Lawrie McMenemy and, although I will be going on a tour of Australia with Manchester United, I will return to Brighton a week early."

A Video to coincide with the Manchester United tour — called The Manchester United Story — will be available in Brisbane from June 11. The tape, which will be available in both formats and will sell for $39.95, will detail the history of the club and feature all its big games.

Lou Macari, the only member of the Manchester United side to previously tour Australia, has been offered the post of manager of Derby County.

Macari was notified of the offer in Hong Kong and decided to return to England for further discussions.

Macari, who was recently given a testimonial by United, was to have guested for Marconi after the international tournament.

United by the way, won their match in Hong Kong 4-2.

Prior to the tour of Australia, Rangers had lost only three matches since manager Jock Wallace returned to the club from English outfit Leicester City six months ago.

But according to Wallace, that was three matches too many and he is not keen to build the total while in Australia.

Wallace also brushed over reports that Socceroo David Mitchell was unhappy at Ibrox Park. Wallace said the young Australian had been given permission to play with Australia because "of homesickness".

"And hopefully it will help him work things out." Wallace added.

CHAMPIONSHIP

For the first time a club championship will be conducted in conjunction with the Premier League competitions.

The winning club will be determined by the aggregate points score of club's three Premier teams.

Prizes include a $1000 voucher towards next year's team insurance from Insurance Exchange of Australia and a set of 15 shirts from Attack Sports Pty. Ltd.

The latest rankings in the club championship are:

TOP SCORERS

Big prizes are on offer this season for the leading goalscorer in the Premier League.

The player who scores the most goals in Premier League fixtures will be in line to win sportswear from Attack Sports and Sabre Sportswear.

The leading scorers after last weekend's matches are:

8 goals: Tony Bailey (G Thist); 6: Ross Swan (Nth Star); 5: Martin Green (Tar); 4: Wayne Corbett (Wyn); 3: Gerry Kay (Aca. R.), Ron Hartley (Acac R.), Cameron Bell (Mt. G), Craig Low (Oly), Ron Millman (Ips U).

PREMIER LEAGUE — ROUND 8 MOUNT GRAVATT v WYNNUM

Dittmer Park, Sunday, 3 p.m.

For Wynnum coach Brian Lampitt, this match is a return to his old stamping ground.

Lampitt played several successful seasons with the Hawks before moving on to Annerley, where he played-coached, before going to the Gold Coast.

He knows what to expect from the Mount Gravatt team, and it will be a keen battle of tactics between himself and his former team-mate Eric Thompson.

Wynnum have attempted to play open football this season and deserve more results than what they have got.

Mount Gravatt have struggled to find a balance, but on occasions have looked as menacing as ever. The ball just hasn't gone in for the Mounts so far this season and it is unusual for them to be so far into the season without a four or five goal win behind them.

It is unlikely this game will feature that scoreline, but it should be a comfortable win for Mount Gravatt.

Scorers:

North Star goalkeeper Paul Drury will be facing his former club-mates when the Tigers visit O'Callaghan Park.

But it is unlikely Drury will get too much to do.

Not only has he one of the most experienced defences in front of him, the Easts forward line hardly has hit its straps this year.

The Tigers' goal-scoring tally is among the lowest in the League.

North Star have been impressive, without winning this season. But the difference between them being a top side or just middle of the table will be by how many goals they can beat teams below them.

Easts could take some wearing down but, if Stars have any semi-final aspirations, they should win by two goals.

PREMIER LEAGUE — ROUND 8

IPSWICH UTD. v ACACIA R.

Ebbw Vale, Sunday, 3 p.m.

This match will be only Ipswich's second home appearance so far this season.

And in their last appearance on the Ebbw Vale turf, United were certainly convincing.

They brushed aside last year's grand final winners Olympic, to the tune of 3-0. Ken Gordon, Ron Millman and Ian Humphreys were the scorers.

Although Ipswich appear to be the draw experts this season, coach Matt Carson is unworried by the seemingly slow start. He says it is better that his side does not play too well, too early in the season.

But eight rounds into an 18 round competition is about the time that anyone who is going to win anything starts putting it all together.

The Ridge have surprised a few teams this season and have the ability to match it with Ipswich. United might throw a lot forward, but another draw could be on the cards.

Scorers:

On their home ground, Taringa already have scored two impressive draws against fancied opposition.

Rovers drew 1-1 with Mt. Gravatt, and were unlucky not to beat the Hawks, and took Ipswich United to a 2-2 draw.

Thistle are the third of the "big three" of the local competition and could well expect similar giant killing treatment.

Taringa seem to know exactly how to play on their own park while Thistle have not travelled well this season — taking only one point from three games away from Latham Park.

A bigger park suits the speed of Garth Moloney and Tony Bailey, but the Grange striking duo will find space hard to come by on Speare Oval.

Taringa will be looking to the return of Frank Byrne and that could be a telling advantage.

It definitely will be a close one which could go either way, but look for a Taringa win for the sake of not tipping a draw.

PREMIER LEAGUE — ROUND 8

OLYMPIC v COALSTARS

Goodwin Park, Sunday, 3 p.m.

TEAMS

Former Olympic midfielder Peter Tyson will be keen to turn in a big performance against his old club in this match.

Tyson went to Coalstars this season after he could not agree to terms for a new contract at Goodwin Park.

His knowledge of the bumpy Goodwin Park surface will be handy but he is sure to come in for some heckling from the Olympic supporters.

Without Tyson, Olympic have tended to run hot and cold this season. But they are due to score a resounding win.

Tom McGregor and Craig Low could have too much pace for the Coalstars defence and that could net the home team at least one goal.

Olympic's defence too is far from water-tight and Coalstars have the ability to hit back. It could be end to end stuff with Olympic managing to stay that one goal in front each time.
