Points to Ponder

A country affiliate made sure it had an extended trading license for last weekend's Ampol Cup tie. In the previous round, when they hosted a club traditionally known for its drinkers, the hosts were raided for after hours trading.

Then there was the lower division southside club which forgot to pay its electricity bill and subsequently training nights have had to be re-scheduled to afternoons. The club though still is managing to top its division.

An interesting point was made in the Richlands press box last week after Young Socceroo Richard Bassingthwaite scored his second NSL goal in only half a dozen appearances. He has now matched the goal total of another Lions player who recently moved into triple figure appearances.

The Ampol Cup semi-final draw will be done live on Channel Seven's Sportscene this Sunday for everyone to see. But the sleight of hand comes the following Tuesday when the management committee allocates the venues. The tip is, if Bundaberg draw Sunnyside look for a Perry Park match with the QSF hoping the Rum City wins so the Cup final can be played in the country. If Bundaberg draw either North Star or

STOWELL DISAPPOINTED IN COACHING RESPONSE

State director of coaching Bruce Stowell has expressed disappointment this week in the response to approaches to leading local clubs for players to enrol in a Level Two coaching course.

Stowell wants to stage a Level Two course at the end of the season, for players only. And he is particularly interested in attracting players who are involved in the higher leagues.

More than two months ago Stowell sent letters to all the National League, Premier League and Intermediate League coaches asking them to canvas their players for anyone interested.

So far Stowell is yet to receive a reply. "It is very disappointing and I am starting to wonder whether it is the coaches or the players who are to blame," Stowell said.

Stowell has not set any dates yet for the course as he was waiting for replies

Ipswich United, they almost certainly will be at home.

Norm Hunter is sporting a black eye thanks to his younger son, and latest NSL starlet David. Seems Norm invested in a new chain saw but stuck his nose in a little close as David was pulling the start cord and copped an elbow to the head. Norm's still smiling though and with good reason. At the start of 1983 he predicted Alan would be the Lions NSL stopper by the end of the year, and was proved right, and earlier this year firmly believed David would be an NSL regular by the end of this season.

Not a great deal has been said, but an investigation is underway into a very suspicious scoreline in a lower division match last weekend. Twelve goals were scored in a pretty even split between the two teams and someone smells a rat.

Our soccer-playing journalist who seems unable to score in his high riding lower division team still hasn't found the net. But a few eyebrows were raised last weekend when he missed a few sitters then claimed the double after the match.

The weekend after the first referees' summit meeting 15 players were sent-off, and all bar one were outed for between one and four weeks by the disciplinary committee.

and then would decide on a time which suited the majority.

The idea of bringing in only higher grade players for a course is an exciting one, as the approach, involvement and execution of exercises should mirror a similar standard.

"If players haven't been advised of the course by their coaches then I urge them to ask for details or contact me direct," Stowell said.

Stowell also will stage a Level Three live-in course next year. The course at Mount Gravatt CAE, will run from January 12-17 inclusive.

Anyone wishing to undertake the course should contact Stowell at Perry Park on 52 5327.

NEW RULE FOR GOALKEEPERS

FIFA, soccer's world governing body, has introduced a new rule for goalkeepers designed to speed up the game.

FIFA, at a meeting of its international board in Belfast, changed the rule concerning goalkeepers' steps while in possession of the ball.

From July 25 when the rule is implemented (in the northern hemisphere and next year in the southern hemisphere), a goalkeeper in his own penalty area, having released the ball, after taking four steps will not be allowed to pick it up again until it has been touched by another player outside of the penalty area.

The penalty for an infringement of the rule will be an indirect free-kick.

FIFA opted to change the rule to speed up the game and reduce wasted time. The change is in fact recognition that the recent rule where a defender must touch the ball before a keeper can pick it up again — has failed.

TWO MATCHES SET TO SETTLE IT!

The relegation and promotion issues between the Premier and Intermediate League could well be decided this Saturday.

Although the season is only into the first game of the second round, trends in both leagues have already been established and if the results go a particular way this weekend it is hard to see any change before the end of the season.

The key games are the Premier League clash between Acacia Ridge and Olympic United at Proud Field on Saturday evening (7 p.m. kick-off) and the Intermediate League game between Rochedale and Wynnum at Underwood Park on Saturday afternoon (2.45 p.m. kick-off). In Premier League, Acacia Ridge's 1-0 win over Taringa in the last round has meant they have pulled two points clear of last-placed Olympic. If the Ridge can score a win this weekend, they will have a four-point breathing space away from the drop.

With only eight rounds remaining, it would take a major revival for Olympic to come back, if they lose this weekend. But if the Goodwin Park side can get up, the relegation issue in Premier League will be wide open.

It is certain to be a tense and tough game, with some ill-feeling already creeping into the game over the Brad Ryan transfer controversy. Ryan a former Ridge player, reportedly wants to return to the club, but Olympic have not yet agreed to let him go.

In the Intermediate League, Wynnum have swept all before them in their first season back down in the lower competition. They have a perfect record and hold a four point lead over Rochedale in the premiership.

But Rovers know that is a false position. Rochedale actually beat Wynnum in the first round but had the points taken off them and the score awarded 3-0 to the Wolves because of an unregistered player.

The two clubs represent strong regions and both would make ideal Premier clubs. But only one can go up. If Wynnum win this weekend, they will be six points clear. And although the Intermediate League is particularly strong, it is hard seeing Wynnum throwing away an advantage like that.

If Rochedale can avenge their first round "loss", the premiership will be as open as ever.

Both games certainly will be cut-throat affairs and sure to produce good football. And the beauty of the afternoon is that spectators can go to Underwood Park at 2.45 p.m. to see the Intermediate League clash, then have plenty of time to get to Proud Field for the 7 p.m. Premier League kick-off.

It undoubtedly looms as a great way to spend Saturday!

Happier and more successful times for Olympic.

GO SOCCER EDITORIAL

By Editor, GEOFF STEAD

The National League should be commended on its efforts to get referees interstate.

Queensland officials long have suffered from being in a soccer wilderness and only getting one or two NSL games every two months. By travelling interstate they will become better known and more experienced.

Moving referees around the country also will solve the problems of coaches criticising hometown officials. As was highlighted in the media this week, the problem has become a joke.

And South Melbourne's Len McKendry is one of the worst offenders. McKendry and his players were critical of Queensland linesman Dave Nugent because he had the courage of his convictions to point out to referee Richard Lorenc that, in Nugent's opinion, a tackle on Doug Brown was outside the box.

How many times have we seen visiting coaches and players loudly appeal to the referee to check with his linesman when offside and penalty decisions have gone against them?

If Lorenc had pointed to a direct freekick and Nugent had indicated a South penalty, they would have taken it graciously.

Furthermore as the chief official, Lorenc was under no obligation to accept Nugent's advice. He did so in the spirit of the game.

And that is what all the recent meetings and publicity has been about. Too many people in soccer these days are looking for excuses for their own failings. They are not prepared to get on with the game and earn their victory.

The belief of some visiting teams is that they have a divine right to win and should be handed the result on a platter. Local referees, and in particular, Dave Nugent should be commended for taking a stand in the name of soccer.

And perhaps it is time others in Queensland soccer backed our men in black and white. An occasional statement of support from club officials or indeed the Queensland Soccer Federation would not go astray.

Queensland referees at National League level are among the best in Australia. National ratings have proved that consistently in recent years.

The South Melbourne's of this world can complain all they like. The simple fact was that they could not put the ball into the net more times than did Lions.

That's soccer, not Dave Nugent's fault.

ACROSS MY DESK . . .

By QSF Secretary, ALAN VESSEY

The recent summit meetings between the federation, the referees and coaches was a worthwhile exercise because it made everyone aware of each other's problems.

The clubs for example, were able to understand that referees are only available in limited numbers in relation to the number of games we play.

They have their own problems of grading and disciplinary matters similar to what clubs apply to their own players. And like players, some referees can have good and bad games and it is necessary for clubs to be more tolerant in understanding the difficulties referees face.

Conversely, the referees were able to learn that clubs are looking for consistency, particularly in the 90 minutes.

While referees' performances may vary from week to week, the clubs want consistency in decisions within a game.

I firmly believe the meetings were the right step at the right time.

The main benefit was an awareness of each other's problems and a need to work together to eliminate them as much as possible.

It must be realised that we will never get the perfect situation, but an understanding of each other and our separate and combined involvement in the game will be a benefit in the long run.

BILLY'S BULLETIN BOARD

I don't know if Jimmy Shoulder has finalised his Young Socceroos squad to go to Russia for the world youth championship, but there's one name that should be at the top of his list.

His name probably wouldn't fit on the bit of paper, but if Richard Bassingthwaite doesn't go to Russia it will be a joke.

"Bass" has scored two goals in his past two home games and is playing brilliantly. And the thing I hope Shoulder takes into consideration is that unlike all the blokes at the Institute of Sport, Bass is playing National League.

And as was proved in Mexico with the 1983 squad, that made a lot of difference. It was the guys with NSL experience who performed most consistently.

Bass is very much a confidence player and to get the nod for Russia is just what he would need to become a real star. And besides, with his head of hair, he's already got the right hat for Siberia.

I would hate to be in Gordon Arrow-smith's shoes this week.

Soccer can be a cruel game, and it's anyone's guess which of our three keepers will get the nod for this Sunday's match. Everyone obviously has their own preference, but which ever way Gordon goes, he's going to upset two people.

Who would be a goalkeeper? They reckon you have to have no brains to begin with but they way things are at Lions at the moment you can't afford to have feelings either.

TED JEFFERIES

TALKING TOUGH SOCCER

What was so special about Sydney referee Richard Lorenc last weekend?

It took a lot of guts to call over Richard Lorenc, and I was stunned when the ref listened to the linesman after pointing to the spot.

If that's what Dave does after I have a dig at him in the column, then I think we will re-name it Billy's Beachball Bulletin. No, seriously though, Dave's a great bloke and it's about time one of our referees stood up to the southerners.

His style and influence on the game was no different to that of say Dave Nugent, Alan Kibbler or Bill Monteverde.

In fact, at times I thought he looked

If it was more cut-throat, it would be a murder.

One guy I reckon should be the first picked this week is my brother David.

I know people might say I am biased, but anyone who was at Richlands last weekend must have been impressed with his home debut.

I have always reckoned he is a great player, but no-one believed me. I'm just hoping now that he doesn't decide to become a stopper.

It's bad enough having to fight for your position at training, let alone having to continue the battle at home.

So Ron Millman reckons Olympic have more to offer the Premier League than Acacia Ridge. And Len McKendry is Dave Nugent's best friend.

Olympic never qualified to get into the top division, and they had to buy players to do anything once they got there. The Ridge is a club built on effort, loyalty and club spirit. The Singing Blue Army has a lot more to offer than a bunch of hooligans spitting through the referees' race at Perry Park.

I'll put my money on the Ridge this Saturday night.

I guess I owe Dave Nugent an apology. He's not really a summertime beach ball, but he certainly bounced into the game at the right time last weekend.

a little nervous and may have been psyched out by the situation.

Dave Nugent certainly talked him around because from where I was sitting Doug Brown was well inside the box when Russell Stewart tackled him from behind.

And the divot Stewart took out was done with his back foot. And that was only inches outside the box. No, I don't think the referee made any difference at all and I found South Melbourne's attitude boring and so was their football.

If they're the national champions, then Australian soccer has been affected more by Scotsman than I thought!

THE SYD SHOT REPORT . . .

A very successful Scouse night was held at the Ridge on Saturday night.

Thanks go to Bob Butchard and Marie Jenner, with the help of their families, also D. J. Alan Burden and his friends from Greenbank. Our next function at the club is our annual new faces night for the Fred King trophy in August. So come on folks lets get our acts together.

I noticed a very curious item in the home team's dressing room at the Ridge last week. It was a sign on the wall that read. "Referee's dressing room" — with an arrow pointing to an electric plug on the wall from which a lead went into the ref's room.

One wonders to what the lead is connected to on the other side of the wall. Maybe the showers? I have heard that its much quicker and cleaner if victim is standing in water. We might be getting a few smelly refs up in the club after the games in future!

It's no wonder some of our Juniors get into strife on the field, going by the actions of some parents.

Last Sunday week at the Ridge, during a game between the B.S.D. and Annerley U/13 teams, some of the advice given to the kids by their "darling" parents was nothing short of disgraceful.

One lady even went on the field saying, "I have a right to ask the referee why he has made a decision", and that the referee who had nothing to do with either club "should be replaced".

I think some of the parents should be replaced.

We have a very big week coming up for the club from June 29. First on Saturday we have four Senior games with the big one at 7.00 p.m. against Olympic.

This is a do or die match for both teams with the game worth four points to the Ridge if they win. So come all you supporters lets get right behind the lads and I know they can do it if you let them know you are there willing them on. Its going to be a tough one.

On Sunday and for the next seven days the club is hosting the cream of the state's under 12 in the Harry Linning trophy. This entails a lot of hard work by the committee and its members. So if anyone can help in anyway at all please phone Marie Jenner on 273 1486, I am sure she would like to hear from you.

On Thursday July 4 a dinner dance is being conducted for this event. Any person wishing to attend should ring the same number or the clubhouse for enquiries.

It's not true Billy Bunter has been banned from the Ridge. Just for buying raffles and doubles. But I hope he brings a spare set of car keys with his bulging wallet next time!

NOT JUST BLACK AND WHITE

THE REFEREES' POINT OF VIEW . . .

by "WHISTLER"

All too often when spectators feel disgruntled with the performance of their team they look for a scapegoat on which to vent their feelings. You guessed it . . . The Referee.

The recent and much publicised incidents in Brussels were apparently caused by the Liverpool fans and the club has been held responsible for their actions. So too must local teams shoulder the blame when their spectators are responsible for acts of violence.

A week ago a number of referees were allegedly assaulted and in each case club officials were conspicuous by their absence. No protection was afforded the match officials as they left the park they were left to run the gauntlet of angry spectators by themselves. This is by no means unusual as each week Referees are physically or verbally abused by spectators as they go to and from the field and in most cases receive little or no protection from club officials.

In many cases it is these same club officials who cause much of this ill-feeling to build up. They should realise they hold a position of responsibility and should conduct themselves accordingly.

I quote the case of one VERY SENIOR local club whose officials heaped praise on a referee who a couple of weeks ago refereed their team when they won on a penalty decision. Last weekend the same referee, acting as a linesman, disallowed a goal for the same team for a clear offside. The first people to jump up and abuse the linesman both during the game and as he came off the field were the same officials who only weeks earlier had hailed him as a hero.

It would be my earnest wish that those officials recognise themselves in this article but I suspect the criticism will fall on deaf ears.

The message of this article to all club officials and administrators is that you have a direct responsibility for the safety of your own players, opposing teams and match officials from actions taken by your own spectators. It matters little what your personal feelings may be you must take all necessary measures to secure the safety of everyone on the park.

The easiest way to stop trouble is to lead by example. How can you expect people to listen to your pleas to cool down if you have spent the entire match abusing the referee?

Ironic isn't it! Consider the case of poor Len McKendry, coach of South Melbourne. They requested a "neutral" referee against Lions because Mr. McKendry doesn't like Brisbane referees. He has always used them as the "whipping boy" when his team has been beaten in Brisbane. Wonder if he will use the same excuse next week when they play Sunshine George Cross in Melbourne? — The referee is Alan Kibbler of Brisbane.

GO SOCCER

IN THE LOWER LEAGUES

At the halfway mark of the season Amateur Division Five takes the record as the federation's highest scorers. The division boasts 299 goals in 10 rounds. That's an average of nearly 30 goals a weekend in five games — six goals a game! Taringa take the honours as leading scorers in the division with 51 goals. But they're not the highest scorers in all the leagues. Inala City Division Seven has 53 goals at the halfway mark.

The lowest scoring division is the Premier League Reserves, with only 110 goals. But they were scored in only nine rounds. At the halfway stage of the Premier League, 132 goals have been scored.

From next week Brighton in Division Six and Easts in Division Five officially join the competition after playing on a "friendly" basis in recent weeks. And it is not beyond the realms of possibility that they could still make the top four. There are 22 points available for them and at this stage fourth place in Division Six is Grange Thistle on 13 points and in Division Five, Acacia Ridge on 15 points. We are told Brighton in particular are a promising side and have suffered few losses in their unofficial matches so far.

Inala City though is the club heading the "unofficial" club championship. They lead Division Two, and Reserves and are runaway leaders in Division Seven.

A few very young teams are also doing well this year. The Redlands Division Six side, which holds a three point lead at the top of the table, is a very young side, as is the Rochedale Division Four team, which is fourth.

NEWMARKET NEWS

Newmarket has now finished the first stage of its ground and amenities project.

The project commenced some 13 weeks ago and was completed on schedule.

The works completed are as follows: A new lighting system for the main field; Fencing of the main playing area with officials' enclosures incorporated in the fence line; Repainting of both club buildings, including the canteen, dressing sheds, the clubhouse and the park bays; Completion of the rubble drain at the rear of the complex; Renovations to fence signs; Extensions to "The Swamp" (which made E.Q. very happy); and the club Sports Shop.

The second stage of our plan includes: The upgrading of the lights on the small field; Extensions to the clubhouse and the seeking of approval for a full bar trading license.

Obviously these areas will be started when funds are available.

Sincere thanks must go to Jack Di Trapani for the time and effort he has put into this project. A lot of people see what work has been done, but few realise the effort it has taken to get it done. THANKS JACK.

Last year Kevin Knipe put in more time working on the field than a lifer spends at Boggo Road. And this year has been the same.

Unfortunately, Kevin has lost a number of his helpers and if any club member can see their way clear to help Kevin, even if it's only one hour per week, PLEASE contact him or myself.

Thanks Kevin for your efforts.

Proud Field, Saturday, 7 p.m.

Referee:

Everyone knows the significance of this game. Both sides could well be playing for their Premier League survival.

The Intermediate League is so tough that which ever of these sides fails, and probably ultimately drops out of the division, may not return for many seasons. Acacia Ridge go into the game with the edge.

They are two points ahead on the table so a draw will maintain that margin, a win will increase it. Olympic simply must win.

The Ridge won the first round game 2-1, although were a lot more dominant than that. And late last year in a similar crunch game, which both needed to win to qualify for the semi-finals, the Ridge triumphed 3-0.

Neither side though are playing anywhere near their form of last year and it is doubtful this game will be a classic.

IPSWICH UTD. v GRANGE T.

Ebbw Vale, Sunday, 2.45 p.m.

Referee:

But for the relegation clash catching all the headlines, this should be the match of the weekend.

Both sides are locked in second place, four points behind Lions with Ipswich having the slightly better goal difference. And there's plenty of pressure on from behind.

Neither team can afford to lose, and a draw would suit Lions. On paper, both sides look strong and are playing well enough now to justify their table positions.

That wasn't the case when they met in the first round. Thistle started the season strong, Ipswich disastrously, and the Grange side subsequently won 2-0. Kevin Coleman scored an own goal in the game and will be looking to atone. Last year these two sides played a scoreless draw at Perry Park and Ipswich won 3-1 at Lanham Park.

Goals again could feature and it should surprise to see the home side win narrowly in a four or five goal entertainer.

PREMIER LEAGUE — ROUND 10
TARINGA v MT. GRAVATT

Speare Park, Sunday, 2.45 p.m.

Speare Park has often proved to be a bogey field for Eric Thompson's Hawks.

In the corresponding fixture last year, only a Cameron Bell penalty saved the Hawks from defeat. It's not that Mount Gravatt play all that badly at Taringa, they just can't score there.

These two teams played a scoreless draw in the first round and have had different fortunes since. Taringa stormed to the top of the table while the Hawks slumped to the bottom — the opposite situation to what many expected. But in recent weeks things have begun to return to the norm and Mount Gravatt have edged into the top four while Taringa have slipped.

The Hawks need two points to maintain their charge, Iain Kesson's side needs a win to renew their challenge.

Tough, but Mount Gravatt for the money.

North Star have a first round drubbing to avenge in this game.

Coalstars, after an impressive pre-season, came out in the opening fixture and hammered North Star 4-0, Dave Wheeler hitting a hat-trick.

North Star have since recovered from that defeat and have slowly worked their way into a handy position. Coalstars failed to go on with the job and inconsistent results have meant they are yet to really threaten. But the side is not without potential, and once it clicks, Coalstars could be unstoppable. Time is running out for that to happen, and it has to be now or never. Both teams have the benefit of playing last weekend, and North Star will be on a high after reaching the Cup semis.

That should carry them trough this weekend.

PREMIER LEAGUE — ROUND 10
LIONS v EASTS

Perry Park, Sunday, 2.45 p.m.

Referee:

The week off last weekend has enabled Lions to return to full strength this Sunday.

The side was carrying several injuries, including that of midfield workhorse Mick Tonner. With Tonner back in the side, and the team boasting a number of NSL players, Lions certainly look a strong outfit.

Easts will be smarting from their Ampol Cup loss to North Star last weekend and will know that the League is now their only goal.

Although not gaining much publicity, John Sime's Tigers certainly aren't out of it, but a win here looks a little beyond their reach.

Lions won the corresponding first round fixture 3-0, but the team included Richard Bassingthwaighte and Phil Redmond, who could well be in the NSL side this week.

One thing going for Easts is that Lions traditionally play badly, or lose at Perry Park. But the trend should change here.
