The postponement of the annual interstate clash against New South Wales is a good news-bad news proposition for XXXX League players.

The good news is that the three-week postponement will give more XXXX League players a chance to push for inclusion in the State squad. The bad news is that the planned tour of Papua New Guinea, which would have been done by a State squad of largely non-NSL players, is in extreme doubt.

State coach Bruce Stowell has said he will not scrap his 18-man Queensland squad chosen for the originally planned May 11 clash. That squad contains four XXXX League players — North Star's Gordon Euchanan, Mount Gravatt's Martin Kirsopp, Coalstars' Dave Wheeler and Olympic United's Mick Cernaka.

But Stowell has indicated the squad is wide open for additions and deletions. And this week he told Go Soccer it was his intention to watch as many XXXX games as possible over the next few weeks with State positions in mind.

"The XXXX League players largely made their State squad bids with very little preparation behind them. Over the coming weeks I will be going to the Saturday night XXXX League matches and those on Sunday which don't clash with the National League and I will very much have an open mind as to possible new State players," Stowell said.

"If there are XXXX League players who come on over the coming weeks with more match fitness and training under their belts, then they will certainly be considered for the Queensland squad once the details of the match are finalised."

WORLD CUP

LATEST

Don't write off hosts Mexico as a threat in the World Cup this year.

Apart from their obvious home advantage, a survey by West German sports agency ISK shows the Mexicans are ranked top on international performances in 1985. The annual ISK survey lists the top 10 countries as: 1. Mexico; 2. Soviet Union; 3. Hungary; 4. Brazil; 5. Denmark; 6. England; 7. France; 8. Uruguay; 9. Sweden; 10. Belgium.

Of those, only Sweden won't be in action in Mexico.

Interestingly, Cup holders Italy are ranked 16th, one place behind 1978 winners Argentina and one ahead of West Germany, the 1974 winners.

POINTS TO PONDER...

Some quite alarming stories are circulating about the behaviour of one junior representative coach. On one night he is understood to have told his players an exercise would "make them so strong they could deck their father and ! ! ! their mother". Another night he is understood to have turned up to training drunk. It is believed he has since been sacked.

Lucky for Ian Brusasco that his City Council ward is centred on Brisbane City's Spencer Park and not Lions' Richlands. Brusasco stopped at the top of Pine Road last week on his way to the NSL game and offered some Lions fans walking to the game a lift. On getting in the car they asked Ian if he was Dutch?

There was more to last weekend's surprise announcement than what was published. Things had been simmering for some time and had come to a head during a pre-season excursion. Name players were among the discontents.

While the grounds committee has been pretty harsh on some clubs, the Federation could do well to look in its own backyard. Apart from the present bumpy surface of Perry Park, we are told of a potential dangerous design fault with the dressing rooms. According to those who have tried, it is impossible to get a player on a stretcher through the dressing room doors.

Former Lions coach Gordon Arrow-smith got his marching orders on his last trip to Melbourne with the club's NSL team — but it had nothing to do with soccer. Gordon walked into an open room thinking it was occupied by players, but was left very red-faced when he was confronted by an old lady on the toilet, who quickly ordered him from the room.

Is the Commercial League social competition of a higher standard than some QSF Division? Seven players from the 1985 CSL first division runners-up, Tricolor, have signed up with The Gap's Division 7 team which has won its two fixtures 5-0 and 9-0. Other players who have appeared in the "social" ranks in recent years include Len Pollock, John Reid, Dave Costa and Alan Marley.

FOUR BACK

Four players from last year's Queensland Under 15 team are in the State squad again this season for the national championships and Oceania qualifying tournament selection trials in Canberra next month.

They are Brisbane South's Wayne Hinton, North Queensland's Simon Sarinas, Mark Wingett from South-west Queensland and Martin Simpson from South-east Queensland.

The Queensland Junior Soccer Council named a 16-man squad recently to travel to Canberra on May 2 for the national titles, which Queensland lost by just one point to New South Wales last year.

The squad was named prior to the State championships to fit in with the world U16 qualifying program.

As joint Australian coach, Queensland's Bruce Stowell is one of the national selectors.

The Queensland Under 15 squad is: David Duncan, Noel Carroll, Andrew Sommerville (all Bris. Nth.), Aerron Patterson, Stuart Greer, Gerrard Jones, Wayne Hinton (all Bris. Sth.), Warren Cooley (Wide B.), Guy Rigby (Cent. Q.), Robert Hilton, Simon Sarinas, Darren Frieberg (all Nth. Qld.), Mark Wingett, Scott Kerr, Jeffrey Patterson (SW Q.), Martin Simpson (SEQ), Shawod players: Christos Thomas, Tony Leon (Bris. Nth.), Mark Curelli (Sth. NQ.), Mike Corica (FNQ). Coach: Brian Jeffs. Manager: John Bomben.

GO SOCCER EDITORIAL

By Editor, GEOFF STEAD

Queensland soccer has good reason to feel rejected and bitter this week following the Australian Soccer Federation executive meeting in Sydney.

Our carefully planned representative program was thrown into turmoil and the QSF's local credibility was put on the line when May 11 was not ratified for our annual interstate clash with New South Wales. Queensland had the carpet pulled from under its feet, not only by those who have opposed us in the past, but also by those who normally would be behind us.

The annual interstate series has been a sapling nurtured by the Queensland Soccer Federation over the past four years. That sapling was beginning to grow impressively and was assuming a flourishing stature. But last weekend we were left to hang helplessly from a bough.

Any illusions the State's two NSL clubs may have had that southern "allies" would look after them in their bids to get into the 1987 national competition should now be dispelled. It is quite obvious that when it really counts, all that matters is Sydney and Melbourne soccer.

The Queensland-New South Wales game is not some hurriedly organised friendly match. It is the key date on our calendar and one set aside by the QSF last November. That date was circulated to the Australian Soccer Federation and the National League. The National League even acknowledged that when it formulated its initial 1986 draw. But later developments saw a clash of interests. And the solution to that clash, according to the ASF, was for Queensland to compromise.

That compromise has not only thrown the proposed tour of Papua New Guinea into extreme doubt, but the proposed alternative even now is not finalised. It is a compromise that has taken away a major incentive this season for every player within the XXXX League.

The Queensland Soccer Federation has been a responsible and enterprising member of the ASF, but in this matter we have been treated poorly. The 63 QSF-member clubs have been ranked inferior to a handful of Sydney National League clubs.

Queensland, which undoubtedly is the best organised soccer State in the country, will not forget this week's callous treatment. We will ultimately have the last laugh — on and off the field.

ACROSS MY DESK . . .

By QSF Secretary, ALAN VESSEY

It is that time of the year when Federation member clubs and affiliates should lodge their State Government sports subsidy claims.

Funds for assistance are available in various areas. But the methods of application and requirements for grants are particular and the guidelines should be followed closely. The main areas which apply to soccer are those in respect to junior coaching and the upgrading of facilities and fields.

The applications to be submitted now are for work to take place, or monies which will be paid, in the 12 month period FROM July 1, 1986. It is not a retrospective grants system.

In making an application, a club or affiliate would need to submit plans and/or quotations of any intended work. With regard to coaching, the position and areas of jurisdiction and involvement should be outlined.

The grants available are one in five dollars for capital works and one in four for coaching to a maximum of $3750. Applying is not a guarantee of funds and grants are not allocated until after the State Budget is brought down in August.

But to be considered for a share of these funds an application must be submitted NOW. The deadline is April 29 at the QSF Office at Perry Park. The applications are submitted the following day to the Department of Sport.

IT'S THOMMO TALKING

The time has come for the Queensland Soccer Federation to instigate some kind of system to keep good players here in Queensland.

I think we can take the example of the Queensland Rugby League's Ron McAuliffe in contracting our leading players and financially assisting Queensland clubs to keep their star players.

The talent trickle south has already started. Just look at what has happened with Alan Hunter, Frank Farina and Manis Lamond who last week was transferred for $32,000. That trickle will become a flood soon, particularly if any of our teams miss out on the National League next year.

The Federation presently takes 10 percent of all transfers involving Queensland players within or out of the State. Why not put that 10 percent into a special fund which could then be tapped to help clubs retain their stars?

And I am not just talking about our youngsters. While it is very important to ensure we are not continually pillaged of our good young players, I think the QSF should also help in retaining class imports.

Take Mount Gravatt's Marty Kirsopp for example. He is a player with great potential, someone who can really give something to the game. Lions' Jim Morton is obviously another player with a great deal to offer.

The QSF should be taking up the fight for permanent residency for these players. I know the Federation would be wary about delving into club affairs, but this is a Queensland soccer matter. Unless we act now, it will be too late — our good players will be gone.

I often wonder just what kind of team we could put on the park if some of the good players that have come through Queensland were still here. In addition to Hunter, Farina and Lamond we could also add Dave Ratcliffe.

Maybe we are approaching State of Origin soccer?

There should be a stricter control on the standard of match balls being used in many games. While some are QSF Marketing approved balls, they are just not up to standard. It is difficult enough to play football on some of the surfaces around without getting bad bounces because of out-of-shape match balls. Nothing less than say a Mitre Multiplex should be standard for the semi-professional leagues. The ball we used at Taringa last weekend was a balloon!

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

I half expected to miss out on the State squad last week, and it didn't really worry me. In fact I was going to ring Bruce Stowell and declare myself unavailable.

The first reason is that my wife Tracey is due to have our first baby about May 11, which was the original State game day. But also I wasn't playing well. I can't find any obvious reason for my form but I am determined to keep plugging away. I am happy just to concentrate on doing that for Brisbane City.

My Brisbane City team-mate Phil White is not getting the recognition I think he deserves.

Phil is never going to score a lot of goals but his worth to the team is that he is continually worrying defenders. His bustling and strong approach causes them to loose concentration.

And that allows Kieran and myself spaces to exploit.

I think the next couple of weeks will be a productive time for the three of us. You have to remember that until about a month ago we had never even met each other.

But things are starting to work very well. It's so much better than last year. It wasn't my role to be a target man.

Phil's doing that now and it's letting me go for goal.

I don't know the full story behind Gordon Arrowsmith's resignation at Lions, but if he has left to complete his FA coaching badge then I wish him well. The badge is highly respected and will be worth the sacrifice.

Ted Jefferies

THE WORLD REPORT

In continuing the Sunday Times' "Football 2000" investigation, we look at some of the alternatives to the four division 92-team Football League.

Anybody in England confused by the proposals and counter-proposals for restructuring professional football will inevitably look to Scotland, where an elite Premier Division was established ten years ago. The lesson from Scotland is that it worked. "It was the best thing that has happened to Scottish football because our game was dying on its feet," said Chris Anderson, Aberdeen's chief executive.

Eut now, as in England, the climate has altered and the frustrations of the top clubs look like producing a further change.

The 10-team Premier Division made a huge difference to playing standards and broke the grip of the Old Firm on the major honours. Now the gap between the two Glasgow giants and the rest has closed. "The old First Division had a fat middle section of teams who were never going to be in serious contention for the championship, nor in much danger of relegation either," Anderson recalls. "The Premier Division is much more competitive, and no team can afford to relax."

The paying customers agreed. In the final season of the old First Division average gates were 8,500. Last season, despite a general decline in interest, Premier clubs attract an average of 11,000. The others benefitted too: total gates for the Scottish League have increased in each of the past three seasons.

However, Dundee United manager Jim McLean is one of many who now consider that it is time for a rethink. McLean believes the Premier Division, where teams face each other four times, has made the game at this level too competitive. There is little scope for managers to experiment and all talk about the fear which is undermining the game as a spectacle.

As a consequence the leading clubs want a new one-division Scottish League, based on the franchise system. Aberdeen's Anderson has suggested a 16-team national league with the discarded clubs forming an intermediate league. This would ensure that those which generate most of the income receive a bigger share. Six rebel clubs — Rangers, Celtic, Aberdeen, Hearts, Hibs and Motherwell — have threatened to break away from the Scottish League if necessary.

These are desperate times and it seems clubs are prepared to take desperate action.

NOT JUST BLACK AND WHITE

THE REFEREES' POINT OF VIEW . . .

By "WHISTLER"

Isn't it about time all the self-appointed scribes and media people realised that their knowledge of the laws of soccer is at best, poor.

Players and journalists spend their time perfecting their own craft and fail to appreciate that a referee does exactly the same.

To get to the top, a referee spends years studying the laws, questioning and understanding their meaning and putting them into practice. To referee at international level, that official has to be recognised by the Soccer establishment, not just the referees, as being capable of doing a good job.

It remains nothing short of shameful the way sections of the press were quick to try and crucify Bill Monteverde after he sent Jim Morton from the field.

Without checking their lawbooks, if indeed they have one, they assumed he was wrong.

In this instance the law concerned, gave the referee no option but to caution the player for ungentlemanly conduct and as he had already been cautioned he had to be sent off. The same law makes no mention of having to caution the goalkeeper should he move at the taking of a penalty kick.

So a message to all you people with a responsibility for reporting soccer. Don't make the referees' job any harder than it is by sensationalising incidents in which the referee merely acts according to the laws . . . check your facts first.

UB REPORTS — CLUB REPORTS — CLUB REPO

Good teamwork was the feature of Mitchelton's opening 3-1 Intermediate League win over Rochedale Rovers at Teralba Park.

Rochedale opened the match with plenty of pressure, but Mitchy held strong. The first goal came after good lead-up by Darryl Heiner allowed Mickey Hayes to score.

Garth Jones put away a penalty for a 2-0 halftime lead. It was a just reward as Garth was the one brought down in the box.

Rochedale turned the game back into a good contest when they scored after a defensive error but with 10 minutes to go Lee Grice ensured Mitchelton drew first blood when he headed in a corner for a welcome and deserved 3-1 win.

The less said about the Intermediate League

MITCHELTON

Reserves' 3-6 loss to Rochedale is probably the better.

The Fourth Division story was much brighter with the team continuing its winning form with a 4-2 win over Toowong.

Simon Higgins scored the first then Wayne Marstella put a shot away before heading in a John Sullivan cross for his second. Scott Campbell brilliantly bent a shot around the wall for our fourth.

Finally, a special congratulations to Gary Thompson, who was married last Saturday.

KINGSRIDGE

RESULTS

Reserves — Souths United 8 d Kingsridge 0
1st Division — Souths United 2 d Kingsridge 0

This week saw Kingsridge take on local opponents, Souths United. Unfortunately, the Reserve team suffered their second successive 8-0 defeat but on the positive side, there are some new faces and some signs of better team cohesion.

In the main game Kings took the field eager to repeat last week's performance. Early in the first half Souths right fullback received a yellow card for a deliberate foul tackle. Both teams had several clear cut shots parried by the defence. Just prior to the break, South's No. 4 was shown a yellow card for an extremely foul tackle on Barry Russell. Neither team had scored at the break although Kingsridge appeared to have the upper hand.

The start of the second half was delayed due to treatment of an injury sustained by a Souths player just prior to the break and warranted the summoning of an Ambulance to transport the player to hospital.

This incident seemed to strengthen his teammates' resolve to play their way back into the game as Kingsridge goalie, Ian Morris, was called on to make several fine saves. The continuing pressure told as Souths' initial goal came from a defensive error and their second resulted from a protracted goal-mouth melee during which players from both sides came in contact with the ball. After a fine effort, Steve Scarri was replaced by coach, Dennis Allatt, but despite this initiative, the Kings failed to penetrate Souths' defence and went down fighting two goals to nil.

Won one, lost one, I'll say no more.

Once again Ampol have come forward to sponsor Wynnum's Annual Floodlit Colts Competition, which commenced at Maramba, Wednesday, April 9th.

WYNNUM

The competition is based on a round-robin with semi-finals and final with $800 prize-money going to the eventual winner. All matches are played at Maramba, commencing at 7.00 p.m. Wednesday and Friday nights.

To date, games in the first round have been very exciting with no more than one goal deciding the outcome. Teams competing this year include Easts, Grange Thistle, Ipswich Utd., Mt. Gravatt, North Star, Redlands, Valley-Trident and Wynnum.

UNIVERSITY

Queensland University's own goal blight has struck for the second week. And to make matters worse, the culprits were two club stalwarts, playing in front of newly-signed goalkeepers.

Dave Brown's fifth division side found itself a goal down in two minutes after a horror backpass from Ian Newbery in a clash with Inala on Saturday.

In their first home ground appearance for the season, the women opened the scoring in their own net from a Marie Bultreys backpass.

The two this week take the own goal total to four already, after only two weekends of fixtures, a feat to rival Jeff Thompson's no-ball efforts this season.

The only bright spark so far is the success of the club's new seventh division side, under the coaching direction of Andrew Petrie.

They followed a disjointed first outing loss last week with a morale-boosting 8-0 romp at home on Saturday against Valley Trident.

TOOWONG

Toowong opened its season with a double win—a welcome change after slow starts in recent years.

The Division Seven side downed University with Mick Peters scoring both goals.

In the Division Four game, Toowong beat Westside 3-0 with goals by Nigel Woods (pen.), Trevor Bray and Eddie Collins.

It is interesting to note Trevor missed two open goals after we were three up, then after the match produced the 3-0 double!

UB REPORTS — CLUB REPORTS — CLUB REPO

Midfield dynamo Ross Brennan was Annerley's Man of the Match in the opening round Intermediate League scoreless draw with Sunnyside last weekend.

Brennan was a continuous threat in attack and a mainstay in defence. The result was not a bad start to the season, but often when in possession we only went forward. Perhaps a backpass would have given us time to get into scoring positions.

Three great saves by John Di Bartolomeo kept us well in the running and contributed to the superior performance by our side. A winner seemed to be scored when a Dave Ingram header was saved inside the line, but no goal was awarded. All in all it was a pretty good performance from two sides committed to chasing promotion.

The Reserves went down to a goal scored only two minutes after the kick-off when a Sunnyside attacker put away a crossed ball without even the tamest of challenges. We deserved to be punished for the lack of effort. Our game improved and man of the match Craig Covacia was desperately unlucky with a header which seemed to cross the goalline. The match was spoiled by some suspect tackles by both sides.

ANNERLEY

The Third Division played Fairfield Rovers at Dutton Park and the ball was put in the net by Dirk Siedentoff after 15 minutes, but the goal was disallowed because of a defender's handball. Craig Dakers put away the penalty.

A Fairfield penalty, nearly saved by our keeper, levelled the scores, then an own goal in the second half gave the home side the lead. Five minutes later the compliment was repaid and we were in front. After missing a sitter, Dirk put in his next one for 3-2. A miss followed, then his spectacular scissors kick gave us our fourth. Fairfield hit back with five to go for a final 4-3 scoreline to Annerley.

Special commendation to the referee, when without linesmen, did a good job, especially as it was his second game of the afternoon.

THE GOOD COACH

WEEK TWO: PLANNING A SESSION

The coach who simply turns up at the training ground and does his session "Off the top of his head" ultimately will run out of ideas. His sessions will become repetitious and boring.

All training should be based on the players' performance in a game. It is of little benefit to coach above or below the ability of the players.

In designing his program and planning his sessions, the good coach should base his outline on the age, ability and understanding of the players.

Generally, it is not in the best interests of the skill development of players at any age to work in training sessions for much longer than 90 minutes. In planning a session, there are three "R's" which always should be considered — Routine, Realism, Repetition.

Routine allows for players to know what they have to do. Realism in exercises makes for better motivation, for example, put attackers against defenders, mark out an area, keep a score. Repetition, without getting to a point of boredom allows players to get it right.

In planning the session there are four basic parts a coach should incorporate. They are: 1. Opening Activity; 2. Technique - Skill Training; 3. Games; 4. Fitness Training.

The good coach will vary his sessions by changing the order of the four parts, excluding one or more, joining one or more or varying the time spent in each area.

Over the next four weeks we will examine each section in detail, but at the moment it would suffice to say, the success of a session always rests on its pre-planning.

XXXX LEAGUE ROUND 2 GRANGE THISTLE v TARINGA

Langham Park, Saturday, 7 p.m.

Referee: GARTH GOODWIN

TEAMS

If there was an upset first round result last weekend, it probably was Thistle's 1-1 draw with Lions at Richlands.

Lions had recruited extensively this season and were expected to easily account for Thistle, who have had wholesale departures. But Kim Cox's side showed they will still be highly competitive this year.

An interesting substitution last week was that of Steve Dolan and his return to the Grange squad will be invaluable.

Taringa suffered the biggest defeat on the first round, but did well to hold Mount Gravatt to a 2-2 draw at halftime.

Both sides need a win, but the points could be shared here.

In the days of the State League, Mount Gravatt had a formidable record at Dittmer Park and Eric Thompson's new Hawks side is looking to re-assert that home ground authority.

Mount Gravatt played brilliantly on the bogey ground, Speare Oval, to brush aside Taringa last weekend and are running on a high at the moment.

But if they are looking for a side to match their football, the Hawks could not go past North Star.

Stars looked real class at times during the XXXX pre-season tournament, but missed results because of lapses in concentration. That seemingly was solved in time to record a 2-0 win over Olympic last week.

With State squad players Martin Kirsopp and Gordon Buchanan on display, the soccer standard will be high. Neither team will give away much but at home Mount Gravatt may just have the edge.

XXXX LEAGUE ROUND 2 EASTS v LIONS

Heath Park, Sunday, 3 p.m.

Referee: BARRY NORTON

TEAMS

There will be three players in the Easts side wanting to give extra special efforts in this match.

They are the former Lions players signed by the Tigers this season — Jim McDonagh, Phil Redmond and Martin Green.

Players tend to lift their games against their old clubs and Easts' John Sime will be hoping the enthusiasm of the ex-Richlands trio will help push his entire side to an inspired performance.

Easts took a point off defending champions Ipswich United last weekend and would fancy themselves to do at least that again at home this weekend. It will be a tough encounter, but Lions could snatch a win.

XXXX LEAGUE ROUND 2 COALSTARS v IPSWICH U.

Bundamba, Sunday, 3 p.m.

Referee: JOHN JAMES

TEAMS

On paper, this looks Coalstars' best opportunity in years to emerge from Ipswich United's shadow.

Ipswich has held the upper hand for the past two years, but careful rebuilding by Brian Styles has given Coalstars a side at the very least equal of their Ebbw Vale neighbours.

Ipswich derbies are always closely contested affairs and previous form or results count for little. But this time around, the Bundamba side looks better prepared.

Coalstars' striking duo of Mark Brusasco and Dave Wheeler appear to have finally clicked and could prove too much to hold for the new-look Ipswich United defence.

But Coalstars are not without their weaknesses and United striker Peter Vogler showed enough form last weekend to suggest he could be among the goals again this Sunday.

It will be close, but Coalstars to win.

Both these teams have one thing in common — they were first round losers.

And Juan Cutillas and Tony Lowndes will be looking to put a one in the win column this weekend.

But there are other similarities between the two sides and particularly with regard to their attacking flair.

Olympic has players like Stephen Glockner and Chris Fegan who are dangerous on the break while Wynnum boasts the deadly duo Billy McDermott and Wayne Corbett.

By comparison, the defences of both sides are far from watertight, and that could point towards a high-scoring game here.

The home ground advantage should suit Olympic and they could take the points in a four or five goal affair. Entertainment will be the winner here, though.
