A Perry Park-based Brisbane team should be Queensland's National League side next year if the State is left with just one representative in the national soccer competition.

That's the opinion of Brisbane Lions secretary Mr. Lawrence Oudendyk, who is presently attempting to formulate a plan to enable Queensland to stay one step ahead of our southern rivals.

"There will be major upheaval at the end of this season and I see it as a perfect time for us to re-examine our involvement and attitude towards the national competition. If Queensland is left with just one team in the NSL, then I think it could be suicidal to continue on as a lone Club representative. We must generate across the board appeal and the only way to do that is for the side to be seen as one representative of Brisbane," he said.

Mr. Oudendyk cites the success being enjoyed by the Brisbane Bullets Basketball team, both on and off the court, and says soccer could learn some lessons from Brian Kerle and Co.

We could actively promote a Brisbane soccer team in the national competition. It could be called the Action from a Brisbane Bullets basketball game... clever promotion and a successful team has resulted in the sport now drawing the biggest crowds.

THE BULLETS SHOW WHAT CAN BE DONE

Bombers for instance, therefore removing the reluctance by some soccer followers to support another Brisbane club. It would have to be based at Perry Park and be subject to professional promotion. The team would be run as a company by a board of directors. Ideally, no games would be played in opposition to home NSL matches, Mr. Oudendyk said. Mr. Oudendyk admits there could be problems in assembling the player pool and perhaps dual registrations would have to be introduced.

Whether the new company would buy players outright or loan them would have to be decided by those concerned. To be honest, there are some things I haven't thought through yet and I am open to suggestions, criticism or ideas. It's just a personal idea and certainly not Lions policy. I haven't even mentioned it to my board. But I think we have got to start looking at alternatives now to be prepared for whatever happens in October. A headstart now could be the secret to success next year.

The idea of a 'united' Brisbane certainly is not new and in fact the proposal is as old as the national league itself. Plans were afoot to enter a Brisbane united team in the inaugural league but the plan fell by the wayside at the last minute. In the decade of NSL Football which has followed, the idea has been raised many times as a solution to dwindling crowds and lack of interest. But, wary of the problems that had to be overcome, to bring the proposal to fruition, there has never been any serious attempt to pursue the alternative.

A LETTER FROM MELBOURNE . . .

(or Billy Bunter's 'Berger Bulletin Board')

Dear Mr B. (and everyone else up there in Queensland).

Sorry I haven't written sooner, but you know how things are in the fast lane — it's just one Valiant after another down here. I've settled in well and you will be pleased to learn I have lost about eight kilos. I never knew souvlaki was diet food.

Obviously you have passed on news of my weight loss to your good friend Frank Arok, hence my Socceroo squad selection. I hear Mr. Arok says I am a better player now I am in Melbourne. Imagine how good I would be now if I had gone to Sydney! Talk about Diego Billy. But then there's a lot of players in Melbourne too who are "Diegos".

Seriously though, I am thoroughly enjoying the new surroundings. The soccer down here is much more intense and the rivalry creates a slicker professionalism. No-one can afford to ease up because there is always someone ready to take your place.

I was delighted with my Socceroo squad selection but I am certainly not going over the moon, just yet. But then I want to wear that green and gold shirt and I will be doing my best at this weeks training camp.

I also will be looking forward to seeing John and Russ Stewart and Danny Wright down here. Maybe the Melbourne air will turn them into better players too!

I will be keen to talk to them about Queensland's great interstate win. It was a fantastic result and I congratulate Bruce and the boys. But if you thought it was hard scoring against NSW, you should have seen the job I had down here trying to find the result in the paper.

And the State of Origin? The experts down here tell me Wally Lewis plays back pocket for the St. Kilda Thirds. Gene Miles is how long you get out of a pair of Levis.

I am certainly looking forward though to getting back to Queensland this weekend and a bit of sunshine. It's so cold down here some mornings that even my reputation has been halved!

Alan Hunter in action for Lions . . . he returns to Richlands with Heidelberg this Sunday.

I am expecting a tough game against Lions and I am surprised they are not higher in the table. I saw City play South Melbourne and they went well too, but I understand they have been pretty poor otherwise. That disappoints me because I know overall there are players in Queensland equal to many down here. Anyway this weekend will be a good chance to show that.

I look forward to seeing all my friends out at Richlands on Sunday—and you can come along too, Ronnie — it should be a great game.

Regards,

Billy Buntopoulos.

P.S.—Mr B., feel free to park the BMW in my spot at Perry Park.

IT'S THOMMO TALKING

If the World Cup has taught us anything, it's got to be — don't play Uruguay.

I've started wearing shinguards just watching them on TV. But seeing them butcher their way through one side after another I realise now why Frank Arok went to Mexico. I reckon he was trying to organise a Socceroo selection trial between Uruguay and Queensland. By halftime he wouldn't have to worry about including any Queenslanders in his Socceroo side — there wouldn't be too many left!

What has stood out though, in this years finals is the distinct styles of the various countries.

The South Americans who want to play football (Brazil and Argentina) have one style, the British another and the Europeans yet another. Even the Africans are emerging as a force using South American skill blended with raw enthusiasm. Despite what Frank Arok may have learned by going over there, and I am told he didn't even get into a training session, I think it is obvious that to be an international success we must start developing the Australian style. Sure, that has been said before, but I do not think in the past we have had the model to follow.

But the perfect example has been on the television every night. Liverpool's Craig Johnston, a former Newcastle boy, looms as a good mou'd. He typifies the determination and never-say-die attitude which is natural in Australian players. Our game has to be built on runners. We have the climate, the space and the diet to be ideally suited to intensive training. Our kids will never kick balls of rag around the streets and develop silky ball skills. But they will run all day in hot conditions. And given a target, they will battle until they reach it.

I see I got a mention in one of Sam McGregor's letters in Go Soccer last week. Come on Sam, give us a break, it's taken me 10 years to get a referee on side.

I admit things for once did go our way in that game. But full credit to Sam for getting out at the game and saying his bit and then taking time out to also put it in writing.

Queensland soccer could do with a few hundred Sam McGregors. You would be hard-pressed to find a keener supporter of the game.

likely to eventuate for a number of reasons.

All is not well behind the scenes at a Sydney club with a very prominent coach. On a recent flight, a travelling Brisbane referee found few of the clubs' players had many kind words for their globe-trotting mentor.

Which National League player turned up on match day recently without his boots. Maybe his mind was still on the Himalayas.

The next month should seal the fate of most NSL teams and the 16 to make up next years new League should pretty well be decided. Watch the fun and games start then, although don't be surprised if a few clubs go for a massive sellout. The idea of becoming a rich State League club is becoming more and more appealing to some.

Annerley Intermediate League coach Bob Scanlan gets full marks for keenness after calling a training session for 6.30 a.m. Saturday morning last weekend. Although it caused a major disruption to the sleeping schedule of quite a few players (although not all) it must have had some merit as Annerley snared a much-needed point against Rochdale the following day.

Has Courier-Mail soccer writer Myles McIvor been watching too much NSL football? When placed in charge of his son's under 7's side recently he arranged the short-sided team into a four-man backline and one striker. The instructions were "hang-on for a draw and hope we get a breakaway."

An unpublicised touch of professionalism from Easts recently. After reading complaints by a visiting club about an off-the-ball incident, coach John Sime, (who did not see the incident), investigated and took action against the offending player.

Talk is rife of a Brisbane City forward line of Cooper, Wheeler, Brusasco. An exciting prospect un-

LETTER TO THE EDITOR...

Dear Sir,

I am a follower of soccer with no particular club loyalties. I usually watch whatever game I think will be the most attractive, usually Premier (XXXX) League, but sometimes Intermediate League since the local club is involved in that grade.

I read, with interest, the article headed "From the Eastern Suburbs" in a recent Go Soccer. It wasn't hard to recognise the club referred to as being Mt. Gravatt. Even the most one-eyed supporter of that club could not disagree with the objective observations made. It was obvious to me that the writer had only used this club as an example, as all the usual deficiencies are to be found there in the one place. It would be, with the possible exception of Olympic, the only ground to be defective in so many areas.

Now I read in "Thommo Talking" snide remarks about no toilets in dressing rooms, and cold showers, etc. It seems to me that he had, as usual, completely missed the point. If I am not mistaken, the article from Eastern Suburbs indicated a lack of 'public facilities'. It is, after all, the public the code is trying to lure back to the game.

"Thommo" says his club has embarked on a program of "steady development." Steady is not the word I would have chosen. What do they call this program? "Beyond 2000" might be appropriate.

I will finish by saying this as a neutral observer. I will take the modest facilities at Heath Park in future rather than bother with a club whose attitude is expressed in the way "Thommo" goes about it.

P.S.: It is about time somebody stuck up for the bloke that pays his $3 at the gate. Good on you Easts writer.

THE GOOD COACH

WEEK 11: PRINCIPLES OF DEFENCE

It is a simple fact that every team starts a game with one point. Those that defend poorly generally lose that point.

Sound principles of defence will enable a team to keep that starting margin and then at the other end of the park build a victory.

The principles of defence are delay, depth, balance and concentration and involve first second and third defenders.

It is the job of the first defender to delay the attack. To do this successfully he must delay, jockey, pressurise and be patient until he sees an opportunity to win the ball. The first defender must apply the principle of restriction. This means getting as close to the player with the ball as he can without 'selling' himself.

He should adjust his body position so that the centre of gravity is lowered and he should be evenly balanced. He then should move his body in an attempt to play the attacker in a position favoured by the defender. He should not tackle unless absolutely certain of getting the ball or has the support of the second defender.

The second defender's job is to cover and support the first defender. He is the one who must supply depth in defence to avoid 'A square defence'. Attacking players confronted by a first and second defender are likely to pass. Therefore the defence has achieved delay. The distance and angle of support is important. The closer to goal the shallower the depth, although distance and angle can depend on the speed of the opposition.

Valley Trident emerged 1-0 victors from a tough encounter with local rivals Newmarket at McCook Park last Saturday.

The uneven ground surface and gusty wind ensured that the game would not be one for finesse or faint-hearts and that is how it eventuated. There was predictably plenty of end-to-end stuff, much enthusiastic running and many determined tackles. Brett Beves in goal gave a masterful display in thwarting the Newmarket strikers and eventually Valleys went ahead with what turned out to be the only goal of the game, when Peter Carey put away a penalty.

The game was far from over in the second half and as time ran out, Newmarket stormed the Valleys defence in which Shane Rideout was particularly resolute. Valleys held out to the end however, and coach John Lavelle was Basically he must strike a distance that the attacker cannot push the ball past both defenders and beat them in a race for the ball, nor be so far away that he can beat the first defender then compose himself for the second. Generally, the second defender should be angled on the goalside of the first defender, but also in a position where he can see the ball.

The job of the third defender is to cover the dangerous space away from the ball and be prepared to give concentration in defence by grouping around the ball in vital areas to deny space. All defenders should look to funnel back in a wedge radiating out from the goalpost to the halfway flags.

A defender beaten in his half of the field should make a recovery run on a line heading back to the near post. The defenders should endeavour to form an impenetrable barrier in front of the goal that calls on some individual brilliance from an attacker to break through.

But above all, defenders need constant discipline, concentration and application.

Exercise: 2 v 2 in two adjoining grids each 15m square. Team in possession knocks the ball into the other grid to opposing pair then run into grid to defend. The attacking pair must carry the ball to the backline of the defenders' grid to score. The object is for the defenders to delay, contain and cover each other in an alternating first and second defender situation.

VALLEY TRIDENT

very relieved to take both points from a game that could have gone either way. During the game Peter Tyson had to leave the field owing to a recurrence of a back injury and his absence will be severely felt by the team — although in part mitigated by a return to training of sturdy midfielder Carl Musumeci.

The Reserves team players were again disappointed for the second week running when they lost 1-2. Leading for most of the game and having the best part of it territorially, a 10-minute lapse in concentration by the Valleys defence allowed Newmarket to score the goals that gave them victory.

KINGSRIDGE KAPERS . . .

1st DIVISION RESERVES: Nerang 6 v Kingsridge 2

1st DIVISION: Nerang 0 v Kingsridge 3

No! Your eyes aren't playing tricks; the lowly, bottom of the points table team did manage to inflict a 3-0 drubbing on the high flying, only once beaten Nerang.

Although defeated, our Reserves did manage to score twice, and, in being beaten by such a margin, caused no concern for Nerang's first team.

After only five minutes of the 'main' game, Kings made their intentions known with a fine individual goal by central striker, Barry Russell. The only other facets of the first half worthy of mention were that, due to injury, Steve Scerri replaced Rod Pommer and, despite a variety of unsportsmanlike play by Nerang, King's player/coach, Michael Rooney, firmly established his position as 'marshall of the mid-field.'

The second half was initially eventful due to the somewhat dubious 'sending off' of Michael Rooney. The only result for Kings was that all players strengthened their resolve, as displayed by Darren Gray, whose astute chip resulted in the second goal. Not satisfied with this margin of victory, but, after replacement of Glen Van Der Ryken by Bruce Watt, Steve Scerri scored after receiving a finely timed pass. This left not only the goalie but also two or three Nerang defenders grasping at straws in trying to reverse the decision of both the referee and linesman.

For the first time this season, our goalkeeper, Ian Morris, and his fellow defenders were afforded an opportunity to repel all attacking moves, and, because of this fact, should be congratulated for emerging with a 'clean sheet'.

Not wishing to seem conceited, I will again finish with the message, "The times, they are a-changing."

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE: Rochedale 1 v Annerley 1

Rochedale Rovers conceded an early second half goal, came back courtesy of an own goal, then nearly got out of jail late in the game from the penalty spot.

These were the main talking points as Rovers lost valuable points in what is rapidly becoming a hotly-contested league and at the moment a largely unpredictable one. It is in games such as these that promotion can be won and lost — despite there being one game and a full round to go.

A largely productive first half saw chances come and go with players getting in behind the defence and out wide, but a lack of sufficient numbers in the box to finish saw these opportunities come to nothing. Stuart Hart produced a strong first half effort to set several attacks in motion with Brian MacNicol combining to turn the defence around with some incisive running. A point-blank save in front of goal by the Annerley keeper denied Gary Carter and Rochedale a halftime lead. Some undisciplined defence early in the second half saw a free kick result in a dangerous position.

In the ensuing melee, the ball fell kindly to the feet of the Annerley attack and was promptly put away. This seemed to spur Rochedale on but a lack of imagination in attack as the game wore on was to deny us any real chance of securing a win. An own goal 75 minutes into the game permitted us to chase a winner and the opportunity fell soon after by means of a disputed penalty decision. The keeper saved and the rest, as they say, is history.

RESERVES: Rochedale 2 v Annerley 3.

Another hot and cold performance. Had the team started playing football at the start of the match instead of after half-time, we would not have been starting at a 1-3 deficit. The second half was more determined with John Adamson adding to his first half goal. Credit to the players for not dropping their heads.

FOURTH DIVISION: Rochedale 1 v

Newmarket 1: A game of little enterprise from either team, but a good second half from our boys will give them heart to chase their next win.

SIXTH DIVISION: Rochedale 1 v New-

market 0. Congratulations! After falling off the pace last week, we upset the competition leaders. This team is now showing real determination and application and is in a fine position to take the lead themselves. Good luck boys.

BRISBANE NORTH TABLES NEXT WEEK

FROM THE EASTERN SUBURBS

Ron Millman was spot-on in his appraisal of the Ampol Cup (Sunday Mail 1-6-86). The competition has survived for so long because it was a knockout competition.

The opportunity for glory for the lesser lights by taking the scalp of one of the better performed added spice to the tournament, allowed such clubs to progress to the next round, and, kept the higher division clubs honest.

Already this season we have seen, with no certainty of the teams involved proceeding to the next round, Nerang, City and Annerley, defeat teams from a higher level.

This is not good enough. Knockout football produces far more exciting stuff than the present format.

It also preserves the integrity of the competition by forcing the higher division teams to field the best possible teams. This is not now the case.

It is obvious when one watches games that some coaches are using these qualifying rounds against the lesser lights to rest some of their better players.

This should not be a competition in which coaches can use games as trials, the sponsor and supporters deserve better.

This must be the last season of this format if the Ampol Cup is to continue as a competition with any semblance of credibility.

There are alternatives to allow more games to be played whilst retaining the knockout situation, two are:

1. An F.A. Cup type competition

open to all-comers with elimination rounds being played before the semi-professional clubs become involved. Or,

2. Use the Milk Cup format involving about the same number of teams as this year with two leg rounds with aggregate scores determining results, and, progress to the next round.

In the meantime I say congratulations to Nerang, City and Annerley. What a pity you didn't automatically proceed to the next round.

MITCHELTON STABLETALK

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE: Mitchelton 2 v Redlands 3

With only two points separating the top six teams, and these two having been in the top five since round one, this promised to be a good match.

What a surprise for the supporters. Perhaps it was played at such a pace just to keep warm for it was cold, but whatever the reason we certainly were entertained. Good build-up work right from the kickoff and a cross from the left found Garth Moloney and in only 42 seconds it was 1-0 to Mitchy. The pace did not let up and in the 9th minute a cross from their left found Tony Collins to make it 1-1.

Ten minutes later a switch of play found Garth Jones onside and he beat their keeper and we were 2-1 up. Good defence and a number of top saves prevented any change to the scoreline before halftime. Six minutes after the re-start Ron Millman intercepted a mistimed back pass nodded it down and slotted it away to draw level. While both teams worked hard to get the extra point and it was another 30 minutes before Millman got his second goal. But the game was never over until the final whistle. It was a most entertaining game played at a fast pace throughout with neither team disgraced.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE RESERVES: Mitchelton 5 v Redlands 1.

We started this game kicking against a fairly stiff breeze, but even so were in command for most of the game.

Mark Cruse opened our score with a well-hit drive from the left which their keeper couldn't hold in the seventh minute and only six minutes later good build-up and a good finish by Graham Edmunds made it 2-0. A long throw in by Lex Robins in the 15th minute got a couple of touches before Werner Bods-worth slotted it home. We were forced to make a change just before halftime without any change to the score and their replacement was made nine minutes after lemons.

With only 13 minutes to go, a good through-ball found Graham Edmunds to score his second goal and within a minute of the re-start we had sent Brett McDonald away so fast down the left that everyone stopped. He had little trouble making it 5-0. Graham almost got his hat-trick two minutes later but had to settle for a corner. In the final two minutes they made a promising break only to be brought down in the box and the final score was 5-1.

FOURTH DIVISION: Mitchelton 2 v Bayside 1.

The standard of play of which we are capable was seldom, if ever, evident in this game.

Not only was it a very ordinary start for us, but we didn't seem able to break out of it apart from a very few short bursts of individual brilliance. At no stage were Bayside out of the running and I thought the way we played that they were unlucky not to get a point out of it. Our first real chance game after 20 minutes, when Craig Roberts made a break up the middle and with only the keeper to beat, lost his balance and his shot went wide.

Two minutes later they made a break after a bad mistake by our defence and Ian Walsh saved a goal with his outstretched foot and the defender conceded a corner off the rebound. In the 22nd minute they were in with another chance off a corner and Ian had to drop suddenly on to the ball to deny them yet again. With only four minutes to lemons, we were awarded a penalty which their keeper saved, but Wayne Marstella who was following made no mistake with his second chance. Two minutes into the second half they centred from the wing, beat Ian, and an unmarked striker had no trouble making it 1-1. In the 69th minute, Ron Taylor took a free kick from the right wing which crossed the 18-yard box where Wayne drew the keeper and slotted it away on the far side, 2-1. With four minutes to go, the long throw-in by Simon Higgins found Scott Campbell whose header went just over the bar. I thought we were put off our game too easily.

BRISBANE LIONS v HEIDELBERG UTD.

Richlands, Sunday, 3 p.m.

Referee: ALAN KIBBLER

Queensland soccer fans will be able to see for themselves whether Alan Hunter has become a better player since moving south or whether his ability was ignored when he was with Lions.

Hunter has been a key player in the Heidelberg side this season and is the team's leading scorer, although most of those have been from the penalty spot. But Lions know the big man's weaknesses and will be looking to expose them this weekend.

Although City has copped much of the flack over being relegated from the NSL, it is pertinent to note that Lions are only two points ahead on the league ladder. This is the first of two consecutive games at home for Lions and two matches they must win if they hope to stay in contention for the NSL next year.

XXXX LEAGUE — ROUND 9 GRANGE T. v IPSWICH UTD.

Lanham Park, Saturday, 7 p.m.

Referee: DAVE NUGENT

TEAMS

The Thistle surge up the table seems to have come to a halt and the next few weeks will be a real test of the side's character.

If the Thistle youngsters can regain their momentum, then there will be a chance of honours this season. Conversely, if the slide continues, the remainder of the fixtures could turn into a struggle for the Lanham Park-ers.

Ipswich United picked up a welcome two points against Lions last weekend to stay right among the leaders, but they have played one game more. Matt Carson no doubt will like to have as many points as possible under his belt before United are brought back to the field.

The home ground will be to Thistle's advantage, but Ipswich United could have too much determination in this one.

This western suburbs derby has special significance for several players.

Taringa's spearhead striker Calvin Daunt will be making his return to Richlands and will be keen to prove a point — and even keener to get on the scoresheet. Rovers' midfielder Frank Byrne also is a former Lion who will be looking for a big match.

Phil Mulvey also has links with the Richlands Club. He could well face his brother Michael, a possible selection in the Lions team. With Lions looking for a central defender, Taringa's Mark Gilbert could be under the spotlight.

Both these sides were last round losers and will be looking to change that position to move away from the relegation zone. But a draw could be the likely outcome, with goals hard to come by.

Next Games: Grange T. v Lions; Mt. Gravatt v Taringa.

XXXX LEAGUE — ROUND 9 EASTS v WYNNUM

Heath Park, Sunday, 2.45 p.m.

Referee: KEN ADRIAANSEN

TEAMS

With the top of the table so compact, Easts cannot afford to falter in this clash.

And it seems to have been in the past, the Tigers play some of their worst football against the lower-placed sides. John Sime's team cannot afford to do that, particularly as Wynnum were last round winners.

The Wolves are great in attack and in Billy McDermott and Geoff Maltby they have two exciting strikers. But the Wynnum defence always threatens to let in more than the front-runners can score.

And Easts' goal-hungry Jim Mc Donagh and Phil Redmond will relish that. Plenty of goals and plenty of entertainment are likely, with Easts enjoying most of the celebrations.

Next Games: Easts v Ipswich Utd.;
Coalstars v Wynnum.

XXXX LEAGUE — ROUND 9 OLYMPIC UTD. v MT. GRAVATT

Goodwin Park, Sunday, 2.45 p.m.

Referee: BILL MONTEVERDE

TEAMS

If Juan Cutillas' Olympic United could string together two or three results, they could emerge as a major force in this years competition.

But at the moment concentration lapses and irregular form have limited the keen young side to occasional wins and plenty of draws. On their day, there are few who can stop the enthusiastic Olympic. But they can be their own worst enemies.

Mount Gravatt too, tends to create more problems for itself than does the opposition and the number of goals conceded this season must be a worry for coach Eric Thompson.

The Hawks were woeful against Coalstars last weekend and Thompson will be expecting much more. Goodwin Park though, won't suit Mt. Gravatt's footballing style and Olympic could snatch at least a point here. Maybe this time, two.

After a slow start to the season, Coalstars can nip in and steal the major limelight if they win this game.

The Bundamba side is nicely placed to snare a berth in the forthcoming President's Cup final — if they can beat North Star. Similarly, North Star after leading the competition could find themselves right out of contention if they stumble at the final first round hurdle.

With that at stake, neither side will give away much. But then it is in neither's make-up to play defensively and the game should be won or lost in the midfield.

The match hinges on the workrates of players like Gerry Lindsay, Mick Tripp and Bruce Penman and the finishing ability of both team's strikers. Good football should be part of a tough affair with the honours possibly shared.

Olympic Utd. v North Star.
