AMPOL CUP FINAL

PRICE: 80c

Coalstars are hot favorites to win the Ampol Cup Final against North Star at Perry Park on Sunday.

That's if the opinions of Go Soccer's panel of experts are any indication. Local soccer journalists Myles McIvor (Courier-Mail), Bruce Waddell (Daily Sun), Mark Brigden (4EB) and Geoff Stead (Telegraph) are unanimous in their assessment that the Bundamba side will end North Star's hopes of winning a third consecutive Cup Final.

The experts were influenced by a number of factors, but none so more than the current XXXX League table and the past results between the two clubs. Brian Styles' Coalstars hold a commanding three-point lead over North Star at the top of the table. And furthermore, Iain Fagan's North Star have never beaten Coalstars since the two clubs came back into the state's premier division.

Both sides are bristling with experience and a touch of youth, and our experts agreed there was every likelihood the match could feature more than a single goal.

With players like Mark Brusasco and Dave Wheeler being fed by the likes of Ian Lawrie and Bruce Penman, Coalstars look formidable. Similarly, with Alan Marley and Billy Williamson being served by the experienced Gerry Lindsay and Mick Tripp, North Star also should get among the goals.

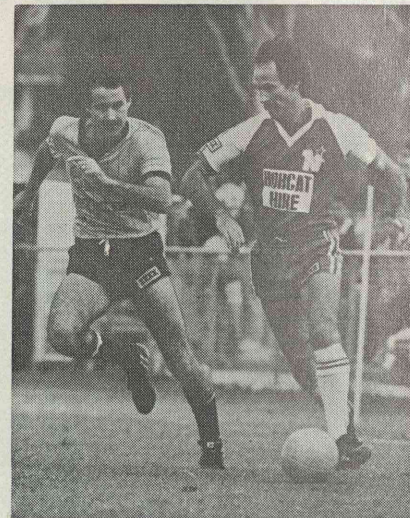

Whichever way the final goes, it is certain to be a fitting climax to yet another successful Cup competition. The Ampol Cup, now in its 28th year, is one of the longest running knockout competitions of any sport within Queensland. And the association between Queensland soccer and Ampol Petroleum Ltd (Qld) looks set to continue.

"We are delighted to be associated with a company like Ampol and through their backing of our state-wide knockout competition over the years we have developed a competition with a real tradition. Tradition is something which is often lacking in many areas of Australian soccer, but Ampol has given Queensland soccer something to be proud of and envied by others," QSF president Ald. Ian Brusasco said.

The early rounds of this year's competition took on a new format to give clubs more games and the QSF will look to improve the Cup competition further next year.

BIG VALUE IN CUP FAMILY TICKET BUY

A special family ticket admission price will be available for the Ampol Cup Final at Perry Park on Sunday.

Two adults and two children, aged under 14 years, entering the ground together will be charged only $5. That's great value for nearly five hours of entertainment.

Normal admission prices will apply for all others. An adult ticket will be $3, pensioners $1, and children (under 14) free.

"Ampol Cup Final Day is always an entertaining family event and we are looking forward to a lot of soccer families taking advantage of the special ticket offer," a QSF spokesman said.

POINTS TO PONDER

The round of XXXX League fixtures after the Ampol Cup semi-finals saw a replay of the two ties — and believe it or not, next week's round of matches sees the four sides in action at Perry Park on Sunday meet again in the opposite combination.

Our recent item about the glamour Intermediate League club supporters allegedly drinking "spiked" cans of Coke was not entirely correct. The fans did not bring their own alcohol to the game and the warming "drinks to go" were being supplied over the bar by the host club. That practice, and the carrying of the pepped up soft drinks outside of the booth area, could land all parties in trouble if it continues.

The rules were stretched a little too when two bayside rivals met for an annual challenge last week. Much of the winning cash went straight on the bar and lasted a few stayers until the wee hours of the morning. One well-known character was seen attempting to gnaw his way through a steel security grid put into place when weary bar staff finally called stumps.

A belated report tells of Dave Nugent's fine game in the rain when he controlled the Intermediate League match between Sunnyside and Mitchelton. "Call him Johnny Walker," said the caller. "Like a good spirit, he goes well in water."

A nice backhander last week from the ASF for our Bruce Stowell, the joint national Under 16 coach. The ASF's program for the Youth International at Perry Park featured a pic of the national coaching panel — Frank Arok (full team), Les Scheinflug (Youth) and Vic Dalglish (Under 16's) — but no Bruce Stowell.

Lower division club advised last week that no refs were available for its game, but were rescued at halftime of the first match of their home double-header when an official turned up after going to another ground, and finding four men in black had been allocated to the match.

FRONT COVER: Coalstars' Alan MacFarlane (left) and North Star's Gordon Buchanan obviously made the right decisions when they switched clubs this season. The two fine young defenders will play key roles for their clubs in the Ampol Cup Final at Perry Park on Sunday.

GO SOCCER EDITORIAL

By Editor, GEOFF STEAD

Those who attended last Wednesday night's youth international between Czechoslovakia and Australia are Queensland soccer's lucky ones.

Not only did they see a fine game of football, they could well have witnessed the last international here for some time. Despite the face-saving comments from several officials afterwards, the simple truth of the matter was that the match was attended by little more than 500 paying customers. That is nothing more than a disgrace!

Hobart and Newcastle, both with smaller populations than Brisbane, more than doubled our pitiful attendance. Queensland soccer should be in shame. And on this occasion the finger in no way can be pointed at our administrators. They did their job in getting a match here, and considerable money was spent on advertising. The blame rests squarely on the shoulders of those within the code who stayed away. It should be a long, long time before they should dare stand up and complain about anything.

And those who take a flippant attitude that too much is being made from one game or offer token excuses that the weather was too cold are completely missing the point. Queensland's image at a national level already is suffering from the disappointing form of our NSL sides. At ASF level, our standing as a strong soccer state probably has hit rock bottom.

What chance has Ian Brusasco got of going south and demanding a fair deal for Queensland when Queenslanders cannot even support the game at home?

This weekend we have a chance to partially redeem ourselves. The Ampol Cup final is one of the highlights of our season. In recognising that fact, the QSF has ensured there are no fixtures in opposition, in any division.

Everyone within the code should not see this as a "weekend off". It is an opportunity to attend what could be a classic match. Nothing less than a huge turnout at Perry Park this Sunday should be expected after last week's night of shame. Soccer has to start putting it up when it counts, or shut up all together.

ACROSS MY DESK . . .

By QSF Secretary, ALAN VESSEY

From an administrative point of view, while there was a great deal of satisfaction in watching Australia play Czechoslovakia at Perry Park last Wednesday, there was also a great deal of embarrassment at the number which turned up.

Three youth internationals were allocated around Australia in centres which normally do not get full internationals. Of the three, Queensland produced the worst attendance figures. Hobart attracted a crowd in excess of 2000 while more than 1000 watched the young soccerroos in Newcastle.

In Brisbane, there were just over 500 paying customers.

The task of any administrators associated with soccer will now be that much harder. While the QSF always strives to get overseas teams and Australian sides to Perry Park, it will be a difficult job indeed to convince the Australian Soccer Federation to schedule further internationals here.

Everyone had a responsibility to attend and support last week's match, and sadly that responsibility appeared to be lacking.

WHAT A GREAT TEAM!

All 13 players plus manager and strapper will meet at Coalstars' Bundamba ground and bus it to Perry Park in a "re-enactment" of their cup success.

The clock will be turned back 21 years when Coalstars' 1965 Ampol Cup winning side re-assembles this weekend.

Coalstars won the match 2-1, defeating Bardon Latrobe, to record their only success to date in the Ampol Cup. The Coalstars goal-scorers were Ian Davis, who hit the equaliser to Bardon's effort and Barry Payne, who scored the winner. At the time of the game, the Coalstars team were bristling with youngsters. The line-up included one 17-year-old, two 18-year-olds and five 19-year-olds.

Although many of the players still live in Ipswich, some will travel for the reunion, and none as much as right midfielder, Stu Dedman. Stu now lives in Dubbo, and still plays. He has organised for his local semi-final to be deferred to allow him to be a starter at Perry Park this weekend. The 1965 Coalstars team will be escorted onto the field by Miss Coalstars Lisa Yates and will be introduced to the crowd prior to this Sunday's final.

IT'S THOMMO TALKING

I don't make it a practice of going into the referee's room after a game — but I had to make an exception with Dave Nugent last Sunday.

Quite simply, the reason was that Dave gave an exceptional performance. It was a pleasure to watch. The game flowed, there was no rubbish and his decisions were spot on. I know we won and some may say that was my motivating force. But I can honestly say, I would have done the same thing irrespective of the result. I shook his hand with genuine admiration and appreciation.

This man can referee and how his association restricts his involvement in the game simply because of his age is one of soccer's tragedies.

Keep up the good work Dave.

As disappointed as he must feel, Russell Stewart should walk around with his head held high despite not getting a run with the Soccerroos against Czechoslovakia.

Frank Arok's actions and comments only highlighted how amateurish things are run sometimes in Australian soccer. There is no excuse for Russell not being tried at some stage of the three-match series. To leave a budding youngster on the bench, yet play a past team member for just four minutes as a farewell gesture, is social football stuff. Russell is good enough to play for Australia and should not let this latest episode get him down. At the moment it seems ability is not good enough to get someone into the national side and that is a sad reflection on our game.

I don't like to harp on the same subject but I am still not happy with the response I am getting in my calls for Queensland soccer to act as a unit to save our representation in the national competition.

People are still not grasping the repercussions if City and Lions are axed. Who read what Jason Polak said last week? Every other youngster will think the same in future. Let's get it together, get a big sponsor, put the NSL in a position where it can't ignore us. Let's not sit back and let the axe fall.

Ted Jefferies

THE WORLD REPORT

Going to the football in Britain is not like I remember, and things could be on the change for the better if this latest report is an indication . . .

Having a police escort into an English first division match is a vastly different kettle of fish than being escorted out of the ground by the boys in blue.

So too is being dropped off at a private entrance rather than elbowing through a seething gate crowd. A leisurely champagne reception and a three-course sit-down lunch before settling into a VIP seat beats a quick bag of chips and a hamburger while standing throughout the match and drinking nothing harder than tea.

It is the latest tourist's way to indulge in a live English football match.

Thoughts of football thuggery and the televised scenes of bottle-hurling, brawling hooligans have ensured the attendance figures for most major clubs are declining — even for those with a peaceful record. Compared with the hair-raising run of riots and violence dogging the game last year, this season the clubs and police are going to work in unison to begin rebuilding the tarnished image.

Many overseas and local tourists ask to see a first division match, but up until now have had to go through the same crowd-battling system as the general public. That is until hotels and football clubs hit on the idea of doing each a favour — the club gets a guaranteed block booking and the hotel draws clientele through a top sporting package.

However, the VIP way of going to the footy is proving so popular with the locals, that the organisers haven't even thought of selling it overseas. Manchester United is one club involved in the scheme and for most Saturday games this new season, the package could be sold three times over.

Organised by that city's Portland Hotel, it has become the in-way for businesses to entertain clients staying for a weekend, on the 'must' list for visiting soccer-mad Europeans or a comfortable and hassle-free way for English fans to indulge their passion.

But it is not for the cost-conscious.

For those not staying at the hotel, the cost of the day package is £109 ($A230).

That provides coffee and cake before boarding a luxury bus to the Old Trafford ground and a mounted police escort for the vehicle through the crowd to the VIP entrance.

Guests are taken on a tour of the players' tunnel and the ground before a champagne reception and three-course lunch.

A star host, usually an ex-Manchester United player, hosts the gathering and answers any questions. There is also a guest speaker. After lunch, guests have immediate access from the VIP lounge to their reserved VIP stand seats for the match.

Following the match, they can relax in the lounge over coffee and view videos of the finer points replayed while the rest of the crowd fights for the exits.

The man of the match receives his award in the lounge and other players mingle and talk to the guests. They are then taken back to the hotel.

Manchester United Commercial Manager Danny McGregor says it is a way for outsiders to effectively become executive members of the club for the day. Such a privilege would normally cost £500 (A$1056) for a season and the club currently has a long waiting list.

Organiser Jill Kimber said the concept of a top level sports package for tourists and locals had long applied to tennis and cricket clubs, but was just beginning to catch on with football clubs.

"Some games are absolute sell-outs and we are inundated with requests, but when matches are rescheduled or played through the week there are generally places available," she said.

FROM THE EASTERN SUBURBS

Although the Tigers have had a slight loss of form in the XXXX League of late, spirit within the club is still high, and coach John Sime is looking forward to a strong finish to the season from his team. With the Grand Final being this season's ultimate prize, Sime is hoping to bring his team to its peak at the right time. Easts' next fixture is at Heath Park on Sunday, August 24, against Olympic United. The Tigers thank their major sponsor, Fork Truck Services, along with Hans Continental Smallgoods, the Red Brick Hotel, the Morrison Hotel and Eagle Wrecking.

AMPOL CHALLENGE MATCH

TARINGA R. v BRISBANE LIONS

Sunday, Perry Park, 12 noon

Referee: PETER MURRAY

This inaugural challenge match came about after Taringa unluckily crashed out of the Cup competition on an own goal against North Star at the semi-final stage.

The Rovers thought this would be their year, and now are looking to secure the "unofficial" third place in the competition. Lions, who were beaten by Coalstars in the semis, eagerly accepted the challenge and the two clubs have pooled their losing semi-finalists prize-money.

But there is more riding on this game than just cash. Both clubs are located in the Western Suburbs and this match could signify supremacy in their area. It also is a chance for Taringa to avenge a 4-1 hiding at Richlands earlier this season.

Calvin Daunt and Frank Byrne will be playing against their old club and also will be keen to prove something. Both sides were last round losers in the XXXX League and the match represents the opportunity to get back to winning form for the run in to the end of the season.

Lions' Richard Van Win and Taringa's Frank Byrne clash during a past Perry Park encounter. The pair are among the host of promising youngsters in both teams.

BRISBANE NORTH TABLES NEXT WEEK

OLYMPIC AIRWAYS
NATIONAL SOCCER LEAGUE OF AUSTRALIA

BRISBANE LIONS v WEST ADELAIDE

Richlands, Sunday, 1 p.m.

Referee: ALAN KIBBLER

Lions officials have worked out that their side can still finish seventh if it wins all its remaining matches.

That's a tall order but the corner could have been turned last week with the 1-0 derby win over Brisbane City. It was Lions' first win in two months. West Adelaide are equally threatened as Lions and a draw will do neither side any good. That could make for some entertaining play. And with full and youth internationals on display like Charlie Yankos, Robbie Dunn, Lou Hristodoulou, Russell Stewart and Danny Wright, this could be quite a match.

MITCHELTON STABLETALK

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE: Mitchelton 0 v Brisbane City 1

A well contested game which could have gone either way with us, to my mind, with a slight edge in the first 25 minutes or so.

Then it happened. A corner to them on the right, and in the scramble in the box, the ball hit one of our defenders on the arm. The linesman considered it a handball and flagged (which he is supposed to do) and the referee gave it. The resultant goal altered the complex of the game. In the 35th minute, they had possibly their only real chance, when their left wing beat our defence and sent a top ball across the goalmouth. But Ross Gallagher's valiant dive with outstretched hands deflected it past their runners for our defence to clear. It probably could be summed up by saying the difference was the penalty.

RESERVES:

Mitchelton 2 v Bris. C. 1

Not the strongest team we have put on the park this year by any means, but enough skill and determination between them to pull it off if given half a chance. It took only 10 minutes or so for a Graeme Anderson cross to find Richie Puttock on the right of the box and the header inside the post put us 1-0 up. Another 25 minutes found them with the equaliser for a halftime score of 1-1. In the second half we applied the pressure and again in the 10th minute, Graeme beat two defenders with a well-timed chip and then took on the keeper for an opportunist effort to make it 2-1.

FOURTH DIVISION:

Mitchelton 1 v Centenary 1

After a run of outs, we seemed to approach this game with considerably more interest and desire to play. Consequently quite a good opening to the game. As they say, they all count, and we were awarded a freekick under the new goalkeeper handling rules. A good ball by Scott Campbell found Graeme Anderson who didn't waste the opportunity. In the second half we gave them no more chances than before but they seemed to make their way into the 18-yard box a few times. On one of these excursions, they were awarded a penalty and beat our keeper to equalise.

A Letter to the Editor . .

Dear Sir,

I refer to the comments on Page 2 of last week's Go Soccer attributed to Taringa coach Iain Kesson.

Unfortunately, the difference in standard is such that performances in the XXXX League are no guide whatsoever to the success of a player at NSL level. All three players mentioned in the article have been tried in the National League extensively and found wanting.

The only truly independent assessor of ability in Queensland is our well-respected State Director of Coaching, Bruce Stowell. His assessment was that none of these players were considered to be worthy of selection in the Queensland squad, much less the actual team.

This is not to say that our new players are performing any better at present. We do however have to keep searching for players with the required ability to be a successful team in the NSL.

And while it seems fashionable to criticise all that ourselves and Brisbane City attempt to do, I suggest a few take a good look at the number of players in Brisbane who have passed through either club. In 10 years of National League football, it seems clubs like Taringa and Easts have been winners in being able to pick up players with the experience and polish of having played in the nation's No. 1 competition.

I ask them, who will provide them with quality players in the future?

Lawrence Oudendyk,

Secretary, Brisbane Lions S.C.

ROCHEDALE REPORT

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE: Rochedale 0 v Newmarket 0

Rochedale Rovers were surprisingly held to a goalless draw at Newmarket's McCook Park last Saturday.

After 15 minutes of the first half, spectators could have been forgiven for thinking that Rovers were about to embark on a goal-scoring spree. A goal-line clearance, some handy-work from the Newmarket keeper and the "woodwork" all stood firm in preventing the ball from finding the back of the net. The game then took a backward step as Rochedale seemed to stop and ponder its lack of fortune.

Into the second half, Newmarket obviously sniffed a point and proceeded to close the door with six men back in defence and on a few occasions too many, pulled eight back in a bid to make whatever space was left as cramped as possible. The boys certainly tried but the break would not come. Even our backline started to come forward to pressure, leaving us vulnerable to a counter attack. Inside the last 10 minutes this is exactly what happened. All was nearly lost when the home team sent their shot round our keeper and towards the open net. If ever Gerry McMahon was to be somewhere then this was it . . . Gerry's clearance off the line saved the valuable point we were to finish with. Other results favourable to us within the League will help relieve the frustration of this match.

RESERVES:

Newmarket 2 v Rochedale 0

Despite the constant chopping and changing which is a Reserve team's life in senior football, this side continues to battle on. But the young nucleus of this side cannot get an even break on the field this season. They do enough in their matches to gain at least a point but often find themselves without luck when it matters most.

FOURTH DIVISION:

Rochedale 1 v Acacia Ridge 3

Our unbeaten run ended in this match but both sides knew that until near the end of this tough encounter, a draw was a distinct possibility.

Although Valley Trident went to the top of the table by a clear point over Redlands, their 1-all draw with Annerley was a very disappointing affair.

VALLEY TRIDENT

With the prospect of a comfortable lead in front of them, Valleys failed to respond to the challenge and only a great save from Brett Beves late in the game prevented them from blowing it completely. The game started well enough with Valleys looking lively in attack, despite the absence of Peter Carey. And when Shane Rideout made a forceful run into the box, the keeper could only parry his blistering shot and Enzo Cupo was on hand to put the ball away.

Then for some reason, Valleys' impetus died and a Tommy Pike-inspired Annerley started to take control. The game degenerated into a rather scrappy contest, partly due to the unevenness of the ground and the failure of the league leaders to find any rhythm or pattern to their game. Beside Beves, who had a very commanding game, Cupo and Peter Tyson deserve mention as they at least tried very hard to inject some purpose into Valley's flagging efforts.

If Valleys are to finish worthy intermediate champions, they cannot afford many such games as coach John Lavelle was quick to point out.

The Reserve team took their points tally to 10 out of the last possible 12, but could only draw nil-all with an Annerley team to which they were superior in most departments.

The defence was always on top while the midfield played some attractive soccer. Unfortunately, too many clear chances went begging and ultimately that's what it's all about. Team confidence is still high however and captain Robert Monteverde is confident that his side can finish well.

This Saturday, August 16, the final of the Miss Valleys Quest will be held at the club. This should be a great evening and as many people as possible are implored to be there for a guaranteed fun occasion.

IT'S LADIES DAY . . .

The Brisbane women's soccer season reaches its climax with Grand Final Day at Atlanta Field, Delaware Road, Geebung, this Sunday.

The Division One final sees a clash between old rivals Easts and Coalstars. These two sides boast the bulk of the state's representative players and the standard of football should be high. Coalstars, who have not been in a Grand Final for more than five years, have six Maroons. Easts, last year's runners-up and a Grand Final regular in recent seasons, has four state squad members.

Internationals Jo-anne Millman, Leanne Priestley and Kerry Millman (Easts) and Coalstars Terri McQueen also will be in action.

Easts will start favourites on the strength of winning the premiership by two points. But Coalstars are thriving on their underdogs tag and cannot be written off.

In the Second Division final, North Star will meet the impressive Queensland Under 15 side while the Fourth Division clash will be between Moggill and Toowong. Toowong have been real giantkillers. The inner-city side won a play-off for fourth to gain a finals start and have taken scalp after scalp, including that of premiers Wynnum, in reaching Sunday's Grand Final. The Third Division Grand final will be between Souths and Capalaba while Inala City and Souths will meet in the Under 12 Grand Final.

The timetable is: 9.30 a.m. Third Division Grand Final (Souths v Capalaba); 11.15 a.m. Fourth Division Grand Final (Moggill v Toowong); 12.30 p.m. Under 12 Grand Final (Inala C. v Souths); 1 p.m. Second Division Grand Final (North Star v Under 15 rep. team); 2.30 p.m. First Division Grand Final (Easts v Coalstars).

Meanwhile, the Queensland squad is in training under Fred Robins for the national titles in Adelaide from September 3-13. Queensland have won the national crown twice and been runners-up twice in the past four years.
