It will be a month before a report is finalised after last weekend's soccer workshop at Perry Park.

Mr. Ian Cooke from Touche Ross, who conducted the day-long workshop, said considerable work still remained before the "highlighting study" would be completed.

The workshop gleaned ideas from 61 people from all facets of the code. Cooke said those ideas, as well as the information submitted in questionnaires completed by those who attended the exercise, would be collated and analysed before the final report was compiled.

And contrary to popular hope, Cooke said the workshop would not produce a complete blueprint for the future of soccer.

"To produce that type of document we would have to do a study which would cost up to $40,000," Cooke said. "What we are doing at the moment is producing a highlighting study which will identify areas of concern and strength and point out what possible action should be taken in those areas.

I am sure as a result of the workshop soccer will make steps forward,

COAST'S CUP

North Star midfielder Gerry Lindsay fends off the challenge of Gold Coast's John Bruggy during the Ampol Cup Final at Ashmore. The Gamblers won a thrilling final 4-2 in extra-time after the two sides were locked 2-2 at the end of 90 minutes. Story and match details on page 13.

MONTH WAIT FOR WORKSHOP STUDY

but whether it will be the giant steps for which a lot of people were hoping for I can't say."

Representatives came from all parts of the state to attend the workshop. They included Mareeba's Alf Moriconi, Noel Ash from Rockhampton, Mackay director of coaching Peter Kelly and soccer officials from many nearby Brisbane areas. The juniors were represented strongly while there were also delegates from church soccer, the Commercial League and school soccer.

The 61 who attended including three XXXX League coaches, Matt Carson (Brisbane City), Steve Dolan (Grange Thistle) and John Reid (Rochedale). Other XXXX League clubs represented included Easts, Coalstars and Mount Gravatt while former NSL club Brisbane Lions also attended.

Other coaches who attended included state director of coaching Bruce Stowell, state youth assistant coach Tony Buesnel and Ampol Cup-winning Gold Coast coach Jim Selby.

Five XXXX League clubs were not represented in any way. There were no current top division players among the 61 at the workshop.

The workshop started at 9 a.m. and concluded at 4.35 p.m. The 61 who attended were divided into small groups. In the pre-lunch session, the groups were asked to discuss and list "the problems facing soccer". Their discussions, which lasted for nearly 90 minutes unearthed 58 "problem areas" which were divided into four categories: promotion, administration, finance and structure.

After lunch the groups were asked to devise the ideal situation in each category. The workshop finished with a group discussion during which many aired their grievances.

FRANK WANTS TO COME BACK

Socceroo Frank Farina (pictured below) is hoping to do more guest appearances in Queensland.

Farina was the special guest at the Ampol Cup Final at Ashmore last weekend and proved a huge hit with the large crowd and children at the match. The former Cairns striker said he believed soccer had to use its national team players to "sell" the game to the public.

"For so long there have been no identities in the game," Farina said. "Now we have got a promotable team that people are talking about and want to know. "The kids don't really identify with any national team players as their heroes and the only way we will get them is to let them meet the Socceroos.

"I've had a tremendous time on the Gold Coast and I hope it has helped soccer in the area. I would like to come back again and I think other Socceroos should be used to promote the game here."

Farina will spearhead Australia's attack in the Olympic games. The Socceroos are in a first round group with Brazil, Nigeria and Yugoslavia.

POINTS TO PONDER

The trip to the Gold Coast for the Ampol Cup Final proved profitable for one scribe. He took a pre-match detour to the pokies and came upon a machine in which the previous player had left 10 credits. On his second "free" go he won $100.

Be prepared for a very surprising announcement which will result in a new combined powerful force in Queensland soccer next year.

If those teams chasing promotion in Division Two think its hard this year, they should spare a thought as to how difficult it will be next season if they don't make it this time. The 1989 Division Two could contain Ipswich United and Brisbane Croatia, Brisbane City if their top team makes the NSL, along with ever-improving sides like Inala City, Nerang and whichever out of Pine Rivers and Acacia Ridge doesn't make it this year.

Just how interested are some people in the future of our game? The list of notable absentees from last Saturday's workshop left some wondering.

One of the lighter moments in a tedious day at the workshop came when someone suggested a way to get better promotion would be to "give Geoff Stead more space" to which one wit added "between the ears".

The story highlighting the ugly incident at Beninca Oval last week prompted one person to telephone the newspaper protesting it had not been a "brawl". "They just punched each other," he said.

Best wishes go out to young Brisbane Lions player Troy Wilkins, who broke his leg at school last week while playing touch football. Maybe there's a lesson there somewhere. But everyone at the club wishes him a speedy recovery.

EDITORIAL

By Go Soccer Editor
GEOFF STEAD

Grave concerns for the future of Queensland soccer must be expressed following the workshop at Perry Park last Saturday.

The idea was one of the most positive steps taken by the code in a long time. While the execution of the exercise suffered because of the enormity of the task, enough positive thinking was aired and constructive suggestions put forward to ensure some kind of workable recommendations will result.

What is of a far more worrying concern is who will implement those changes?

Last Saturday was an ideal opportunity for any person interested in taking over the running of the code to be involved in what was the most open soccer policy talk-fest ever staged. It was the chance to become involved in the grass roots of soccer, a chance to gain a very real feel for the game, its problems, its strengths and where the code was heading.

Where were all the people who have so readily criticised Ian Brusasco and his management committee? Where were all the people who have always had a better way to do it than our current administrators?

There were sections of the code that supported the workshop solidly and if anything positive comes out of the exercise it will be largely thanks to them. Strong support came from the country regions, the juniors, the director of coaching network, church soccer and a handful of local clubs — Grange Thistle probably being the most active of them with their first team coach and three officials attending.

For five XXXX League clubs to miss the workshop is a disgrace.

No-one will help Queensland soccer, unless it helps itself. The depth of Ian Brusasco's commitment and contribution to Queensland soccer is now being highlighted more than ever before.

That not one person attended the workshop with the active intention of letting it be known he wanted to become QSF president must deeply concern Brusasco. It certainly is a sad reflection of the commitment of others.

The successful promotion of the Ampol Cup final at Ashmore last weekend hopefully will be a springboard to a well-supported final series at Perry Park next month.

It was decided to stage the Cup final on the Gold Coast to give the sponsor, which sells its product throughout the state, a wider exposure and to give the Gold Coast Federation, who made a great success of their game against Fiji last year, a chance to host another big match.

North Star responded in a positive manner and five busloads of fans travelled to Ashmore for the game.

I would hope the same attitude is adopted throughout the entire south-east corner of the state when the finals series is staged at soccer headquarters. Like the Cup final, these matches deserve a strong turnout by all people within the code and not just those who are involved or live nearby.

The Gold Coast Soccer Federation who staged the Ampol Cup final in association with the Southport Soccer Club deserve to be congratulated for making last Sunday's match a huge success.

The sponsors were happy and the players in both sides obviously responded to the atmosphere and provided a memorable Cup final.

The QSF congratulates all involved in what was a successful promotion.

TALKING

Touche Ross need to look no further than the soccer workshop attendance book to discover the problem with Queensland soccer.

The 61 people who turned up at Perry Park was a good response. But after closer examination of the areas of the game they represented, some hard-hitting questions must be asked.

It was no coincidence that those with the most representatives at the workshop were the sections of the game which currently are our most successful anyway.

The country areas, which in the past five years have outstripped Brisbane in the development of quality young players were represented by several people who travelled hours to be at Perry Park.

The Queensland Junior Soccer Council, which was another section of the code well represented, has successfully administered our thousands of juniors. Also attending in numbers were our directors of coaching, who have done invaluable work in tapping our talent throughout the state.

Totally unsighted were representatives from many of the big clubs which in recent years have complained and whinged over so many decisions within the game.

Apathy is what is retarding Queensland soccer.

I just hope that the enthusiasm and ideas offered by those who attended the workshop was enough to help Touche Ross come up with a plan that can snap Brisbane soccer, moreso than Queensland soccer, out of that apathy.

The Ampol Cup is on the Gold Coast — despite my prediction to the contrary last week — and that probably highlights that Brisbane is not the be all and end all of Queensland soccer, at least at the moment.

Like many, I never expected North Star to lose their fifth match in a row and go down in the Cup final. But I am told they looked a tired side that seemed to have lost the spark which made them a very formidable outfit.

But anyone would be foolish to write off North Star for the remainder of the season.

I have a lot of respect for some of the quality players in the North Star team. There is still a grand final and $10,000 to be won this season and North Star has the staff to figure very prominently in what should be an unpredictable finals series.

But it will depend on what questions those at North Star ask themselves this week. Do they want the grand final or are they content to just slide out of contention?

If they want that $10,000 to salvage some pride, they must start winning and hold onto second spot.

Players at some of the struggling clubs in the XXXX League must be starting to get excited.

Statistics show that it will be one of the players in the weaker sides of the League who will win the Rothman's best and fairest gold medal.

Unfortunately, players in those teams that have really tried to play some football like Brisbane City, North Star and Coalstars will have to be content in just knowing they are better players.

Every year it sickens me to see the recognition given to the medal winner when often his season hasn't warranted it. Give the Rothman's medal judging to coaches or independent observers or anyone other than referees.

I think their track record already in the Rothman's medal shows the current system is not the best one.

A Letter to the Editor . .

Dear Sir,

I want to thank the QSF for arranging for our three teams to play at Perry Park. This is the second year that we have been allowed to pay for the privilege of moving our home game to Perry Park, and been allowed to sit on their haemorrhoid-inducing seats. Mind you we could have paid a second entry fee and sat in the bar where we would see little of the games through all the heads and posts. What is the point if we draw smaller crowds than we do at home?

And thanks to the Referees Association whom I presume were responsible for sending along the officials. Officials who lacked the intestinal fortitude to keep the teams on the park playing soccer. During the Reserve game, the first goal went to Mitchelton even though one of their players had the Inala goalie pinned to the ground. Later in the game, a Mitchelton player kicked an Inala player after he no longer had the ball, and the linesman who was no more than five feet away did not see it. The Inala player was out of the game.

The Division Two game was much the same with an Inala player being taken out of the game, very early, by a deliberate foul from a Mitchelton player. That player had to be taken to hospital. Officials made only a whimper attempt to control the game even though at least 50 percent of Mitchelton's tackles were directed at Inala players legs. The man with the whistle was more interested in shutting up the coach who was showing concern for his players' safety. A lot of normally quiet spectators became very angry about what was happening.

What we saw was not good soccer, it was not good for soccer. It was not good because the boys from the Mitchelton stables insist on playing like a herd of donkeys, and because officials care more about verbal abuse than physical abuse. Verbal abuse might offend some people, BUT physical abuse can put a player out for the rest of the game; the rest of the season; even for life, and it can prevent them from going to work on a Monday morning. How long is a good soccer player going to stay in the game if he has to contend with this? I think it is high time that officials got their priorities right.

Inala City supporters are very proud of their Reserve and Division Two teams for playing soccer when all the opposition wanted to do was annihilate anyone that got between them and the goal. Mitchelton do not play good soccer and that's why they will never draw crowds of 500 plus as Acacia Ridge and Inala City have proven they can. Supporters go to watch good soccer and its about time the governing bodies took note of this fact.

CAMP OFF!

A live-in-soccer camp at Hervey Bay, which was advertised in Go Soccer a fortnight ago, has now been cancelled.

HAVELANGE HITS OUT AT BRAZIL

Joao Havelange has blasted soccer authorities in his native Brazil for making a "very disappointing" bid to host the 1994 World Cup soccer finals.

Havelange, the FIFA president, said Brazil's poor presentation had made it impossible for FIFA to consider the country as a serious contender for the Cup. FIFA's executive committee last month chose the United States to host the tournament.

"When the US showed us a credible presentation on its facilities for holding the Cup, Brazil came up with a video on Carnival," Havelange said.

Brazil finished last in the executive committee's voting with two votes. Morocco received seven votes and the United States 10.

"It was very disappointing for all of us. It pained me greatly," said Havelange, who arrived home in Rio from Europe.

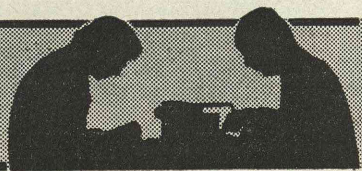

Arsenal, who played in the XXXX Super 6 tournament at Boondall in May, got their new season off to a flying start with a 4-0 drubbing of Nth. London rivals Tottenham Hotspur at Wembley last weekend. The two teams were playing in the international Club tournament which included sides from AC Milan and Bayern Munich. Pictured above is Paul Merson (left), one of the Gunners who was in Brisbane, and Paul Gascoigne, who was signed for nearly $4 million from Newcastle.

WITH SOCCER WORKSHOP CO-ORDINATOR, IAN COOKE

GO SOCCER: Were you happy with the response to the soccer workshop and the way the day proceeded?

IAN COOKE: I was extremely happy with the response, certainly in getting people from all over the state. Probably in retrospect I might have changed some of the things I did, even though overall I was happy with what we got, given the amount of time involved. One of the problems, was in fact a lack of time. But what I perceived was that people had not been given the opportunity before to say what they wanted to say. I think that was probably the biggest value of it and a lot of those who filled out our questionnaire at the end of the day agreed this type of workshop should be held more in the future.

GS: What were you looking for from the workshop and did you get it?

IC: What I really wanted from the workshop was information. I didn't genuinely expect to get a plan in any of the areas we looked at. Mainly, because I don't think that is feasible in one day. What I hoped to get was information which could become a very strong and viable input into a plan. I think I certainly have got the basis of that. A lot of the issues raised need to be gone into in a lot more detail. At least a lot of things were brought out and a lot of people felt they had the opportunity to say what they thought without any fear of prejudice and that was what really came through in the responses in the questionnaire.

GS: Were there any aspects of the soccer workshop which disappointed you or in retrospect you may have done differently?

IC: It probably disappointed me in that I didn't get anywhere near as clear to a detailed plan as I would have liked. In retrospect, I am not sure I would have changed that either, given that it came through loud and clear that people hadn't been given the opportunity to speak in the past. I think it would have been wrong for me to go in there and say "these are the problems, these are the issues, this is what we will focus on". This was exactly the feeling about which people seemed to be anti. Perhaps I let the first session go on too long. I suspect I should have given them only a half an hour instead of an hour and a quarter. Perhaps I should have asked them to just list five or so problems and then we could have looked at them. As it turned out we got both problems and potential solutions all mixed up. But I wasn't prepared to come down on people for that because it would have made it like I was telling them what was going on. I wanted them to tell us.

GS: From the input provided, are there any areas of concern in soccer which became immediately evident?

IC: There are certain areas which have almost universal support as being recognised as problem areas. It would seem nearly everyone thinks there are too many clubs and therefore there is a lack of a focus in terms of promotion, in terms of funding and I guess in terms of general support for the game. To me that was probably the biggest issue to come out. It was also apparent that there was little that was identifiably soccer, as opposed to Aussie rules, league or basketball or whatever. That was also a strong issue and that involves so many other areas.

GS: What can Queensland soccer expect in the report resulting from the workshop?

IC: What I will do is to go through all the information and see what has come up consistently. Then I have to sit down and decide what is viable, what can be implemented. A lot of the things that came up are almost utopian. I didn't want to stop people saying those things, but I have to look at all the information with a sense of realism and decide which things can be done now, which one may be able to be done in the future given change in other areas like administration, finance or whatever.

GS: Once your report has been tabled, what are the next steps for Queensland soccer?

IC: In all honesty, that's up to them, I can't make them do anything. My own reaction would be that there is going to be a very changed face of Queensland soccer given the recent move of Ian Brusasco to the ASF and the very potential move of Alan Vessey. Whatever the changed face is, I would hope they would be very aggressive in relation to the findings of the report. Soccer has got an opportunity and it should be used. What comes out of this report should be seriously considered because I believe what we have unearthed is what some of the best soccer brains in the state have suggested. It would be very presumptuous of me to say I know all the ills of Queensland soccer. What we will present is the ideas of some of the most committed soccer people in the game. What is done with those ideas is really up to the code.

This week's guest tipster is Mackay director of coaching Peter Kelly, who was in Brisbane for the soccer workshop. Last week's guest, Gold Coast's Archie Fraser scored a success rate of 86% — but as there were only seven tips involved rather than the normal 24, it will not count as the record high. The record high is held by Steve Perry and Mick Tonner (64%), the record low by Phil Mulvey and Stein Grodum (29%). The success rate, including that in the guests' column, is a progressive average.

YOUR CHANCE FOR SUBBUTEO STARDOM

Imagine a game that has some 15,000 players nationwide, and which has yet to realise its full potential because it is largely disjointed and lacking in serious competition.

That is the problem facing officials of table soccer — Subbuteo — who are now gradually bringing together the threads of a national association.

Since the formation in January, some 200 players have come forth to join the Australian Table Soccer Association and already League competitions have started in Sydney, Brisbane, Melbourne, Hobart and Perth. Other players are currently in the process of forming clubs in Wollongong, Newcastle and Canberra and a first national championship is being planned for the end of the year.

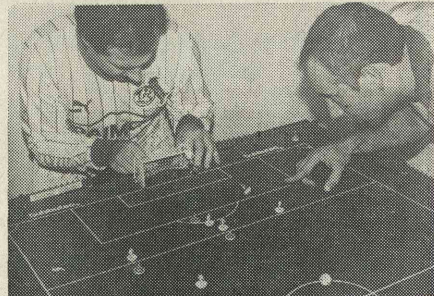

The game is played between two players, or two pairs in doubles, with the players controlling small figures which they flick at a ball, controlling it deftly across a cloth pitch similar to a snooker table.

The ATSA is hoping to cater for players at all levels, from those who just want to have the rules explained to them so they can have more fun in dad-v-son matches or those who feel they can go all the way to the top.

THE AMPOL CUP

SELBY MUST START AGAIN FOR NEW GAMBLERS ROLL

Gold Coast Gamblers coach Jim Selby will have to "start from scratch" for the defence of the Ampol Cup next season.

The Gamblers won an exciting 4-2 in extra time in front of one of the biggest soccer crowds ever on the Gold Coast.

The win was the Coast's first major soccer triumph, but Selby will not re-assemble the Cup winning team again next season.

"Obviously I would expect a lot of the players in the current squad will still be on the coast next season but I will have to start from scratch again and build up a team pattern like we did this season," Selby said.

"I think the secret behind our success is we were a team in the true sense of the word. Everyone worked for each other and believed what we were doing. I would want the same attitude next year and with the Cup to defend, I don't think I will have any trouble."

New Zealand international Paul Halford, who was not introduced to the game until the second half, inspired the Gamblers to their victory and sealed the result with two clever extra-time goals. Although Halford is certain to be chased by higher grade clubs, and probably Brisbane City if it makes the NSL, he is content to continue playing on the Gold Coast.

"I am on the coast permanently," he said.

Halford's sensational form left many wondering why the attacking midfielder was not on the park from the outset, but Selby defended his decision to keep the diminutive Kiwi as his ace up the sleeve.

"I knew it would be fairly physical early on and I wanted to keep Paul on the bench until the hard stuff was over," Selby said. "His job was to then come on and control the match which he did perfectly. That was always our plan."

XXXX LEAGUE — ROUND 19

ROCHEDALE R. v REDLANDS UTD.

Underwood Park, Saturday, 7 p.m.

Referee: MORRIE DELLER

This is the local derby between these two clubs who have been rivals in XXXX League and Division Two for many seasons.

While several years ago battles between the two clubs decided the lead in Division Two, this weekend's clash is critical for a completely opposite reason. Neither team can afford to lose with the threat of relegation still very real for both clubs.

Recent wins have allowed both sides to skip a little clear of the danger area, but one loss could see them slip back just as quickly.

In the first round, Redlands edged out Rochedale 2-1 at the Showgrounds in a match which featured two penalties and a send-off. Feelings are certain to be running just as high in this match.

Brisbane City had to come from behind to grab a draw against Olympic at Goodwin Park last Sunday and will be looking to atone for that performance against their own fans.

No-one knows Brisbane City better than Olympic coach Juan Cutillas and another upset result in this match will stamp his side as a real darkhorse in the finals.

While the mathematic probabilities surrounding the premiership are diminishing with each game, City can't afford to relax. They still must get the points on the board and begin lifting their football in preparation for the NSL promotion play-offs.

This will be City's third game in eight days and that is tough on any players. The young Olympic players are always full of running and are certain to expose any tired players.

Time is running out for Ipswich United to claw their way to safety.

If they fail to win this game, and Rochedale and Mount Gravatt pick up points this weekend, the proud Ebbw Vale side will be just one game away from tumbling into Division Two.

Ipswich United and Grange Thistle have had some epic battles over the years and the corresponding first round clash at Lanham Park was no exception. Thistle won the clash 3-2 with goalkeeper Ross Smith having an outstanding match. When they met at Ebbw Vale last year, United won 2-0, a result which anchored Thistle at the bottom of the table.

The player to watch if Ipswich hope to win could be Thistle's exciting Solomon Islands signing Jacob Moli, who has hit goalscoring form in recent weeks and is fast catching Scott Rackley as the team's leading scorer.

Mount Gravatt will use this match to officially open their new clubhouse and will be looking for a win to cap the celebrations.

After an indifferent run, the Hawks collected three points in their last match which was probably the worst they had played in weeks. Coach Ian Steele this weekend will be looking for a win and some good football.

In the first round, the Hawks led Taringa 2-1 at Perry Park, but in a fashion typical of their season, they found a way to lose 4-2.

Taringa have become draw specialists in recent weeks and that is starting to cost them a chance of figuring in the finals for the first time.

A loss here in fact would see Mount Gravatt leapfrog Rovers on the table and that could turn semi-final thought into relegation fears for Taringa.

Next games: Mt. Gravatt v Bris. Cro.
Taringa v Ipswich U.

BRIS. CROATIA v EASTS

Dunn Road, Sunday, 2.45 p.m.

Referee: ROGER MARSHALL

TEAMS

Croatia scored an upset 2-1 win over Easts in the corresponding first round clash between these two sides.

Both teams finished the game with 10 men with Croatia's then new signing Drazen Bozic having an outstanding match in his fixture debut. With the threat of relegation a very real one for the Rocklea-based club, nothing less than three points will do again.

Easts had a tough game against Brisbane City on Wednesday and Croatia may be able to take advantage of any tired legs.

But Easts are a strong side which many are tipping to come from behind the leaders and storm into the grand final. That will be much more difficult to do from fourth place and the Tigers could do with the points here to help them avoid the knockout semi-final.

NORTH STAR v COALSTARS

Perry Park, Monday, 8.30 p.m.

Referee: ALAN KIBBLER

TEAMS

It is a long, long time since North Star lost five games on the trot but that is the run the former league leaders will be hoping to end in this match.

But they couldn't have come up against a tougher side to get back into winning form. Coalstars are being sidely tipped as the side to upset the leaders and lift the grand final trophy.

In recent weeks, and particularly against Ipswich United, they played some devastating football. That might just suit North Star though, who tend to play better against the better sides.

With the disappointment of losing the Ampol Cup Final now behind them, and the championship beyond their grasp, North Star's only remaining target is to be at Perry Park on October 9.

That could become a forlorn hope if their run stretches to six games in this match.
